SOVIETS COOL TO ALLIES ON SECOND FRONT

WILLKIE FINDS REDS DISAPPOINTED AND CRITICAL

BY EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Sept. 24 (AP)—Wendell Willkie will take back to President Roosevelt a deep and disturbing impression of Russian dissatisfaction over the failure of the western allies to establish a second front in Europe.

That was obvious here today, after Willkie's Kremlin audience with Joseph Stalin.

The president's emissary talked briefly today about the disappointment and coolness he has noted among Russians everywhere on the matter of the second front.

"I feel it," he said, "and you must."

Too Many Questions

After seeing Stalin, and presenting him a fat, square envelope containing Mr. Roosevelt's message, Willkie said nothing to indicate he did not discover disappointment, too, in the leader of all the Russians.

To those Americans who have been working here since announcement was made of the Washington and London agreements on the "urgent tasks" of creating a second front in Europe in 1942, it is no secret that they have been getting cooler treatment from Russians, both officials and private citizens.

It may be a very, very cold winter in Moscow, and the weather will not be the only reason for the frigidity.

One learned Russian, who for seevral years has been lecturing on the United States and Britain, remarked: "Recently I have stopped talking on these two countries. My audiences ask me too many questions that I cannot answer. One of the foremost is why the United States and Britain cannot start a second front."

Britain Also Criticized

Willkie himself has talked to the highest officials of the government and with workers in the lowest categories.

They all expressed appreciation for U. S. and British aid, but, Willkie said, it was evident that the thing they really want is a second front. Unless one is created they are going to feel terribly let down.

More and more, there is outright criticism of the United States and Britain in Moscow—casual friends and bare acquaintances bring up the question of the second front and asked in no uncertain language why there isn't one.

Willkie and those who accompanied him were surprised at this feeling. The German advance in the Caucasus and upon Stalingrad has been a hard blow for the Russian people, and they definitely feel and say that they are shouldering the burden of the war against Hitler.

Impressed By Defenses

Today the Russian press made a big front page display of pictures of Willkie and Stalin together. The pictures showed Stalin in his usual military jacket and Willkie in his dark blue suit.

Willkie saw the defenses of Moscow and met the man who delivered the goods to Russia—Rear Admiral Edye Kington Boddam-Whetham, the British commodore of the latest convoy to get through under axis attack.

Concerning the capital's defenses, Willkie said:

"They are the most impressive of any city I have seen in this war. I believe Hitler would have a very tough job ever taking Moscow."

He also visited several factories, and talked to several workers who wanted to know when the United States and Britain would open a second front.

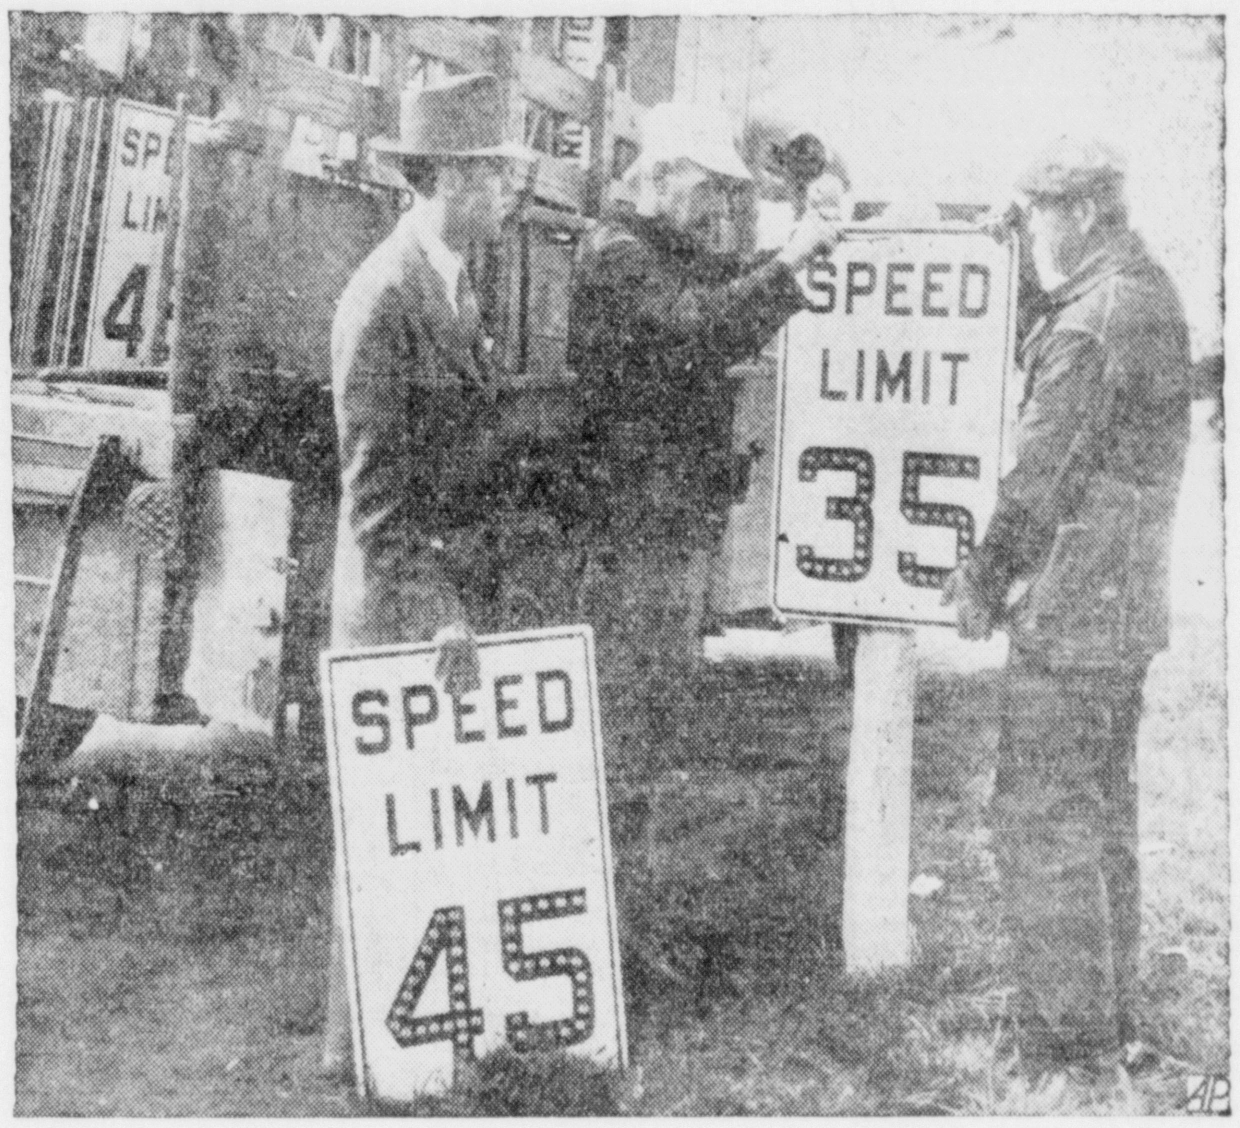
New Road Signs for Rubber Conservation



So that motorists will have no excuses for ignoring the new 35-mile top speed limit in Detroit, old signs authorizing higher speeds are being removed and 35-mile signs substituted by city workmen as an aid to the national war-time rubber conservation plan.

ALLIED TROOPS CONTACT ENEMY

New Guinea Situation Unchanged, Says Communique

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, Friday, Sept. 25 (AP) Allied patrols have made contact with the enemy in the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea, a communique reported today, but the "general situation" in that area is unchanged.

The report of renewed activity in the mountain jungles through which Japanese have advanced upon Port Moresby was the first in more than a week. There was no indication whether it presaged a large scale resumption of the enemy push southward against the big Allied base.

While the land fighting was reactivated, General MacArthur's air forces continued to press their relentless attacks on Japanese centers behind the front in New Guinea and outlying islands.

Bombers probably sank a medium Japanese merchantman at Rabaul, New Britain, the high command said, while other Allied planes bombed and strafed Buna and Kokoda on New Guinea, as well as Buka at the northern tip of the Solomon Islands.

Striking also toward the west for the first time in recent days, the Allies raided Dilli in Portuguese Timor. There, the war report said, another Japanese cargo ship was bombed by a reconnaissance unit "with unknown results."

Muskegon Officer Found With Venison Will Resign Post

Muskegon, Mich., Sept. 24. (AP)—Sergt. Clarence Jacobsen, 26-year-old veteran of the Muskegon police department who pleaded guilty with two others yesterday to charges of possession of a deer out of season, has indicated his intention of resigning from the police department, Chief Peter Hansen said today.

Jacobsen, who was arrested by Mason County Conservation Officer Ivan Roberts, paid a fine of $100 and costs imposed by Justice Henry Seeba in Ludington as an alternative to a 90-day jail sentence. Pete Petroskey, former Muskegon boxer, and Charley Chin, Chinese operator of a restaurant and laundry in Muskegon, paid similar fines after pleading guilty to the same charge.

Trial Of All Axis Leaders Demanded After End Of War

Milwaukee, Sept. 24 (AP)—Trial and punishment of all Axis officials at the end of the war was demanded tonight in a resolution adopted by the Military Order of the World War.

The resolution, approved at the order's 22nd annual conference, asked that non-aggressor nations set up special courts after the war to try officials responsible for "barbaric activities" against people of occupied lands.

Freezing Of Social Security Tax Voted

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—The senate finance committee voted today to freeze social security taxes at their present level for another year, instructed a joint committee to investigate the Ruml "pay as you go" income tax collection plan, and rejected a proposal to tax "excess earnings" of individuals.

These decisions made, Chairman George (D-Ga) announced that committee consideration of the bill was ended save for a general inspection of the final draft of the measure, expected to be available in a week.

Closed to Amendments

The chairman said he considered the bill closed to further amendments until it reaches the senate floor. Thus any effort to write in a sales tax or other new revenue raiser appeared blocked.

Treasury experts estimate that in a full year's operation the measure will add about $6,851,700,000 revenue to the current annual total of approximately $17,000,000,000 under present law.

George and other members of the committee contend, however, that the treasury is underestimating the probable yield. In a speech delivered only last night, Senator Connally (D-Texas) reckoned the total federal income under the new bill at more than $26,000,000,000.

It was on the motion of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) that the vommittee voted to leave social security rates unchanged throughout 1943. Thus employers and employes will continue paying in one per cent of salaries to the benefit fund if the senate and house agree to Vandenberg's proposal. Otherwise, under terms of the social security act, the rates would automatically rise to two per cent each on next January 1.

The Michigan senator said reserve requirements of the fund already were twice as large as called for under the law.

A committee of five senators and five representatives, delegated to look into the problem of compulsory savings, was instructed also to investigate the "pay as you go" income tax collection plan advocated by Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

CAPITAL TAKEN IN MADAGASCAR

British Troops Push On Southward, Cheered By Island Natives

BY NOLAND NORGAARD

London, Sept. 24 (AP)— British troops were ready to push on southward in Madagascar today after virutally completing conquest of the northern half of the island by the quiet occupation of Tananarive, the capital.

From his East African headquarters, Lieut. Gen. Sir William Platt, head of the British East African command, announced that the last remaining garrisons west of Tananarive surrendered unconditionally yesterday.

"Our troops were received with cheering by the whole population and the town is quiet and peaceful," Platt said of the actual occupation of the capital.

The Vichy government, acknowledging that Tananarive had fallen, reported the population was taking the situation calmly.

Platt's communique also reported that Antalaha, 200 miles south of Diego Suarez, on the northeast coast, was occupied early yesterday.

In London, military sources expressed the hope that what they called the "stupid" destruction of highways and bridges to impede the occupation forces now would cease. They stressed that such demolitions would injure the islanders themselves by making it difficult to resume ordinary commerce and communications.

At the 200-mile daily pace to which the advance has been held since the British reopened operations on Madagascar, the British would need three more weeks to finish the occupation if demolitions continue.

MERCHANT SHIP SUNK

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—The navy announced today that a medium-sized Panamanian merchant vessel was torpedoed and sunk by an enemy submarine late in August in mid-Atlantic and survivors have now been landed at a United States east coast port.

Finns Deny They're Looking For Peace

Helsinki, Finland, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Finnish information bureau tonight issued an official communique branding as "false and foundationless" foreign reports that the Finnish legation in Washington had intimated Finland was ready for a separate peace with the Soviet Union.

The communique explained that the Finnish legation last week held a press conference to correct what it called erroneous and misleading information about conditions in Finland, chiefly the food situation, which it said had been appearing lately in American newspapers.

Unwanted Dreiser Gets Out Of Canada

Port Huron, Mich., Sept. 24 (AP)—Theodore Dreiser, eminent American novelist, who wrote "The American Tragedy," described himself today as the "number one victim of the four freedoms," because he gave vent to his feelings about the British war effort.

His expression on the war effort was quoted as saying: "I would lished in a newspaper there. He w asquoted as saying: "I would rather see the Germans in England than those damned aristocratic, horse-riding snobs over there now."

Mr. Dreiser, who was scheduled to make a speech in Toronto found the address cancelled—promptly.

GERMAN LINES CRACKED OPEN IN STALINGRAD

DEFENSE OF CITY OVER 30 DAYS IS MIRACLE

BY HENRY C. CASSIDY

Moscow, Friday, Sept. 25, (AP)—The Red army cracked German lines northwest of Stalingrad Thursday for the second time in 24 hours in an incredible burst of offensive power springing from the smoking depths of a still unconquered city beginning its second month of siege.

The Red high command said these gains were slight, but it also reported that Russian boulevard bastions inside the battered city, where fighting is now in its second week, were still holding firmly under furious Nazi assaults reported to have cost the Germans approximately 12,000 men in five days and more than 150 tanks in two days.

Reds Have Plenty Tanks

(Berlin acknowledged these facts indirectly by making no specific claims of success and by reporating heavy Red tank attacks on the Nazi flanks north of Stalingrad, where German airmen were reported busying themselves with trying to stop Russian reinforcements from crossing the Volga above the city.

(The Berlin radio also implied that the Germans were losing heavily. It quoted "competent quarters" as saying: "It is once more stressed that a general assault regardless of losses is deliberately avoided by the German high command which prefers to take the city by a systematic gradual advance, although the fall of the city may thus be delayed for some time."

(Reports reaching London said the Russians were making "a serious dent" in the German flank northwest of Stalingrad, and that the Red army was plentifuly supplied with tanks and artillery in its assault.)

Warships Help

The Russian spurt northwest of Stalingrad gained slightly for the second straight day, the midnight communique said, and seven German attempts to retake a hill site captured by the Russians Wednesday failed with "heavy losses" for the invaders. Thirty-five German tanks were destroyed in this single series of assaults and a battalion of enemy infantry was wiped out, the Russians added.

In other sectors of the ruined city the Russians said two battalions (about 1,000 men) were annihilated by Russian mortar crews; another Red army unit wiped out 250 Germans and destroyed three Nazi tanks, five guns, an ammuntion dump, and five artillery pieces.

The amazing Russian defense of exposed Stalingrad found the Volga river warships still using their long-range guns to cover important road junctions and rake German troop concentrations along the river bluffs.

The communique said these

CHIEF OF NAVY IN CANAL ZONE

Secretary Knox Arrives for Inspection of Defense Area

Balboa, C. Z., Sept. 24 (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Knox arrived in the Canal Zone today for an inspection of the new reinforced defenses of the vital Panama canal, which has been a focal point on the war map since the opening of hostilities in the Pacific Dec. 7.

It was assumed that he would confer with army and navy leaders here on the latest war developments and trends.

The secretary, who last inspected this strategic crossways in December, 1940, arrived this afternoon by navy plane from the United States. The big craft skimmed to rest in the waters off the Coco Solo naval base on the Atlantic side of the isthmus.

At the navy department it was said that Knox's call at Balboa was a "routine visit of inspection."

However, it was recalled that at a press conference on Sept. 11 Knox said he would visit Rio de Janeiro, stopping at American bases along the way, the trip to start within six weeks or two months of that date.

"I propose to take a good look at everything south of here along the Atlantic," Knox said at that time.

Pullman Flaming Coffin For Score In Wreck On B&O

BY JAMES E. HAGUE

Dickerson, Md., Sept. 24 .(AP)—Toiling rescue crews tonight had removed 12 bodies from the twisted wreckage of two passenger trains and a fast freight in which 20 persons were believed to have died.

State police and railroad officials said 12 persons were known to be dead—nine of them having perished in a flaming Pullman car. Eight were still unaccounted for and feared dead, they said.

Engineer Under Bond

Meanwhile, Magistrate William D. Clark of Montgomery county said that State Police Sgt. John J. Cassidy had sworn out a warrant charging that Raymond Rufus McClelland of Baltimore "did feloniously kill" J. M. Gilbert, identified as one of the victims.

Clark said McClelland had been released under $3,000 bond for a hearing on the technical manslaughter charge Oct. 16.

Baltimore and Ohio railroad officials had previously said McClelland was the engineer of the Ambassador, one of the trains involved in the accident.

In the eerie light of spotlights and carbide lamps, wrecking crews attacked the Pullman, pulling it away bit by bit until the twisted hulk bore no resemblance at all to a railroad car. Rescue workers planned to work all night.

Identification Impossible

The entire area was encircled by rifle-bearing Maryland state guardsmen who challenged anyone approaching the wreckage, no one without credentials was allowed on the scene.

The bodies which had been taken from the wreckage were so badly burned that immediate identification was impossible.

The sleeper car carried most of the victims when death struck swiftly this morning in a deep gully along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks. One passenger express plowed into another, and tossed the Pullman into a freight roaring along the adjoining track.

Wreckage of all three trains jammed into a small mountain of crumpled steel in the narrow pass, and fire from spilled fuel oil spread quickly through the tangled mass.

Six bodies had been taken by late afternoon from the Pullman, and railroad officials said they held no hope for 12 other persons believed aboard at the time. They said 21 were riding in the Pullman, three of whom were rescued, all injured.

The other victims were a trainman identified as J. M. Gilbert, 53, of Baltimore, flagman on the freight, and a man whose decapitated body was found near the blazing wreckage of a baggage car on the second passenger train.

First In 23 Years

Nine injured were taken to Frederick City hospital, and an undetermined number of others treated at the scene. Some of those at the hospital were reported critically injured.

The wreck occurred at 7:35 a. m., Eastern War Time, half a mile from Dickerson, about 35 miles northwest of Washington. The Baltimore and Ohio said it was the first train accident involving injury to passengers in 23 years. It happened this way:

The Cleveland night express stopped to repair some engine trouble. A flagman was sent out, and recalled when the trouble was

BOMBS BATTER U-BOAT CENTER

British Planes Fly At House-Top Level to Pound Flensburg

(By The Associated Press)

London, Sept. 24—RAF heavy bombers flying at house-top levels dumped huge loads of explosives on the heavily-reinforced German submarine works at Flensburg last night in a renewal of the British campaign to stamp out the submarine menace at its source.

For greater accuracy, many of the big four-motored Lancaster and Halifax bombers swooped to a few hundred feet to drop their bombs squarely on the submarine yards. After explosions in the yards clouds of black smoke filled the sky, the British said.

Machine gunners raked gunposts and searchlights from as low as 50 feet and many of the attackers flew back across German territory at roof-top height to escape anti-aircraft fire.

The air ministry announced 10 bombers were lost, but the British considered this a small price for a heavy blow at this U-boat breeding nest which ranks with Bremen, Hamburg and Emden as a submarine fabricating center.

The Flensburg attack was accompanied by a raid of coastal command planes, manned by Dutch fliers, on an axis convoy along the Dutch coast. Three ships were hit, authorities reported.

Bill To Eliminate Poll Tax Requisite For Voting Pushed

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—A bill to prohibit poll taxes as a requisite to voting will be called up in the house on October 12 on the petition of 218 congressmen, who thus discharged a house judiciary committee which had been considering it.

Twelve Michigan congressmen signed the petition. They were Crawford (R), Hook (D), Tenerowicz (D), O'Brien (D), Dingell (D), Blackney (R), Wolcott (R), Shafer (R), Woodruff (R), Lesinski (D), Rabaut (D), Engel (R).

The bill would eliminate poll taxes in votes involving federal officials. The bill has been bitterly opposed by southern members.

Baskets And Boxes Running Short For State Fruit Crop

Lansing, Sept. 24 (AP)—Federal agricultural officials have been asked by Leo V. Card, state commissioner of agriculture, for help in relieving a "serious and growing" shortage of baskets and boxes threatening Michigan's fruit crop.

"We appealed to the war production board," Card said, "but they said they had no solution. We don't know how we'll lick it but we're trying."

Concerns which normally fill the fruit growers' demands for containers, he said, now are engaged in war production, and the shortage is being felt keenly, especially in the harvest of the apple crop.

War Plants Charge Pirating Of Labor At Grand Rapids

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 24, (AP)—The Grand Rapids Association of Commerce moved today to act on numerous complaints of "labor pirating" made by local war plant officials here.

Benedict H. McGinn, district manager of the U. S. Employment Service here, said that complaints that employers are luring skilled workers away from other war plants with higher wages are being sent to Detroit for transmission to Washington.

ANTI-INFLATION BILL REVAMPED

Compromise Is Sought Suitable to Senate and President

BY RICHARD L. TURNER

Washington, Sept. 24, (AP)—A revived compromise proposal covering the hot issue of farm price ceilings attracted support among senators tonight, and administration leaders believed there was a possibility of perfecting an anti-inflation bill acceptable both to President Roosevelt and to a majority of the senate.

They were, however, by no means certain. Thirteen members of the agriculture committee had rejected the compromise earlier in the day. In addition, the parliamentary situation was such that the senate had first to vote upon the farm bloc's proposal. This calls for an increase in parity prices by the inclusion of farm labor costs. The president then would be forbidden to set price ceilings below these parity figures.

Conceding that this amendment would be adopted, the administration leaders claimed that they then would be able to command enough votes to substitute the compromise for it, the end result being that the farm bloc amendment would be eliminated from the bill.

The compromise, bearing the names of Senators Tydings (D-Md) and Reed (R-Kas), would recognize labor costs as a factor in fixing ceiling prices. It contained a direction to the president to modify any established price ceilings if they "appear" to fail to reflect the increased cost of farm labor.

FIVE VESSELS SUNK BY JAPS IN SOLOMONS

SPEEDY TRANSPORT AND DESTROYER GIVEN UP

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Washington, Sept. 24 (AP)—The 1,500-ton destroyer Jarvis, with possibly 172 men aboard, has vanished in the southwest Pacific and is assumed to have been sunk by Japanese submarines or aircraft, the navy announced today, and the speedy auxiliary transport Little also has been lost.

The casualty list of both vessels was believed to total about 250, since, in addition to the men who disappeared with the Jarvis, the navy said that approximately half of those on the Little died. The Jarvis' normal complement was 172 and the Little, a converted destroyer, usually carried 150 to 200 crew members and troops.

Hit Off Guadalcanal

Both ships had been engaged in operations in the Solomon Islands offensive. Their destruction raised announced U. S. naval losses in that campaign to five ships sunk and five damaged, as against at least 22 Japanese vessels sunk or damaged.

Before her disappearance, the Jarvis was hit during enemy air attacks off Guadalcanal Island and forced to put in at the nearby American-held harbor of Tulagi. From there, she set out for a repair base to the south. That was several weeks ago, and somewhere enroute she disappeared.

A navy communique reporting the fate of the two ships said that surface and air craft had made an intensive search for the Jarvis, but had failed "to locate her or reveal any trace of her personnel."

"It is assumed that she was sunk by enemy submarines or aircraft," the communique added, and the next-of-kin of those aboard have been so notified.

Enemy Loses 400

In the case of the Little, the navy reported only that she had been "sunk by the enemy in recent operations in the Solomon Islands area" and that about half of the personnel aboard were saved.

Previously, it had been revealed that the destroyer Blue, the auxiliary transport Colhoun and an unidentified cruiser had been sunk in the Solomons and that two cruisers, two destroyers and one transport had been damaged.

The navy's total announced losses in the Pacific area now stand at 43 ships sunk or demolished to prevent their falling into enemy hands, and 12 ships damaged.

The Japanese, on the other hand, have lost an estimated 400 or more ships sunk or damaged. The navy has reported 143 Jap naval craft and 134 non-combatant craft in that category, exclusive of blows dealt by forces under American army command in the Philippine and Australian theatres.

Port Huron Flier Killed In Collision

Pheonix, Ariz., Sept. 24. (AP)—Eight officers and men were killed today in the collision of two AT-11 bomber trainers during a routine flight.

The planes burst into flames and crashed from 1,000 feet.

Second Lieut. Robert T. Ross, Port Huron, Mich., was killed.

Duck Population High For Hunters Saturday

Lansing, Sept. 24 (AP)—Michigan duck hunters will open the 1942 season Saturday privileged to their first September shooting since 1930 but faced by war-time complications.

The state conservation department reported that nimrods will find the largest duck population in recent years and that conditions generally were favorable for the opening of the season which will run 70 days—10 days longer than last year.

In its first hunting survey of the year today, the department said that few flight ducks have been observed yet, but that conditions are propitious for their movement. Opening of the rabbit and grouse season in the upper peninsula October 1, the department said, will find heavy foliage hampering hunters and dogs alike.

Duck hunting handicaps this year appear to be three-fold: Lack of shotgun shells, censorship of weather reports, and coast guard restrictions.

Anticipating a shortage of ammunition, many hunters have hoarded shells with the result that in some sectors dealers are rationing their customers to one box each.

The recent wave of cold weather has made a good opening day certain, but war-time censorship which limits weather forecasts to the approaching 12-hour period may bother the urban sportsman who wants to plan his marsh trips well in advance.

The major obstacle for those who hunt along the Great Lakes and connecting waters are coast guard regulations restricting free movement of men and boats.

The stiffer rules, according to the department, apply along the eastern shore of the state. These are the principal rules:

Boats of any size built to operate with detachable motors must carry a coast guard license.

All ship channels connecting Lakes Huron and Erie, including the St. Clair and Detroit rivers and Lake St. Clair, have been designated as restricted areas as the result of a collision between a pleasure craft and a freighter recently and no hunting or fishing boat may enter the areas without a permit from the captain of the port, the permit being good for only one day.

No boat under 100 feet in length may operate in the area between sunset and sunrise without such a permit. No boat with duck hunters may approach within 300 feet of any water front facilities, such as docks, plants, utilities, etc., or cargo vessels.

Conservation officers say the restriction on travel before sunrise would make it difficult to reach duck blinds before the fowl "come in" at sunrise and shooting starts. They said the rule might hamper hunting in the famous duck country, the St. Clair flats.

On the western Michigan shore line, the department said, coast guard regulations forbid hunting along the shore adjacent to restricted areas and shooting within range of such areas. Use of such small boats as row boats and duck punts is approved outside of those areas, as is passage in power boats if the operator has a coast guard identification card. Operators of boat liveries and duck blinds are held liable for the behavior of their patrons.

Shooting in the area is restricted, the department said, to daylight hours except for one hour before sunrise and one hour after sunset. Hunters may not possess any weapons not approved by state game laws, and may not carry cameras.

GIANTS OF AIR HAVE DOGFIGHT

Two Jap Planes Downed; Negaunee Man Gets In On Battle

BY EUGENE BURNS

An Airbase in the South Seas, Sept. 24, (AP)—Giants of the air—20-ton flying fortresses and Japanese four-engined Kawanishi flying boats—have clashed in monstrous dogfights over the South Seas, American pilots related.

One battle lasted 25 minutes and carried over an area of 60 miles or more. About 1,500 rounds of .50 caliber machinegun ammunition were fired with at least 50 per cent" hitting their target.

Two enemy planes were scored as positives, definitely believed to have been destroyed. A third fled into the clouds.

The Americans returned to their bases without casualties.

Usually the story of fighting aloft is pursuit plane against pursuit, or pursuits against bombers. Rarely is it bomber against bomber.

Sandwiches Forgotten

The pilots whose planes each reported a positive kill are Capt. Walter Lucas, of Starkville, Miss., and Lieut. James W. Lancaster, of Temple, Tex.

Captain Lucas' told of a death struggle in which the bomber and flying boat got so close that "it was just like formation flying."

Both these great ships were hundreds of miles from their bases.

"We sighted the Jap off to our side going in the opposite direction and up around 8,000 feet," Lucas said. "My engineer, Technical Sergeant Chester Malizeski (Natrona, Pa.) had gone back to get us some food, but I forgot all about sandwiches when I saw that other plane."

Lucas' flying fortress nosed around and started for the flying boat. Coming up from below and to one side, he surprised the enemy and started firing at the maximum range.

Immediately, the boat started weaving from side to side, trying to swing its stinger—a cannon in the tail—across the flying fortress. Lucas closed in to a thousand yards. Staff Sergeant Ed Perry (Warren, Minn.) reported he saw tracer bullets from the side guns manned by a fellow Minnesotan, Sergeant Vernon Nelson, of Fergus Falls, score on the Jap's tail fin.

"The tracers went into the tail and right on out the other side," Perry said. "Then Nelson pulled his sights on the Jap tail gunner. That was the last of the tail cannon."

Lucas' fortress pressed home to close range.

"First we would be on one side and then on the other," Perry explained. "The Jap was trying to get down to the water and he would sideslip under us. Once we were almost wing tip to wing tip."

Engines Ablaze

For 25 minutes the giants slugged it out, trading blows in a death battle which was carried on for 60 miles, the flying boat with machine guns firing wildly, twisted and turned, trying to throw off the persistent army bomber.

Finally, Nelson and Malizeski, the latter in the top turrent, silenced the enemy's side gun and knocked out the number four engine, they then hit two more engines, setting them ablaze.

The enemy flying boat soon landed near one of the islands and turned toward shore. As he was taxiing for shelter, Captain Lucas flew low across his wing. As the fortress pulled up, the tail-gunner, Technical Sergeant Edward Sptch, of Seymour, Conn., who had been complaining because he had not been able to get any shots, sprayed the Jap craft with his .50 caliber bullets. The plane exploded and burned.

Funds Are Pledged To Rehabilitate 269 Houghton Reliefers

Lansing, Sept. 24 (AP)— Commissioner Walter F. Gries today obtained from the state social welfare commission a pledge to seek funds for the rehabilitaiton of 269 Houghton county relief cases, a move regarded as a possible experiment for a state-wide program.

Gries said Houghton county reported it had 269 persons on relief who could be rehabilitated and placed in war production jobs. Many of them, he said, are miners.

"Strictly speaking these are local hospitalization cases," Gries said, "but there are no local funds to care for them. The county already has spent $1,200 to rehabilitate some men, but if the nation actually is going to need more factory workers and miners as the army grows it might be a good thing to see how much a program of this sort would help."

Jobs for Blind

He said the average age of the cases was 37 years.

The commission agreed to ask the state administrative board to allocate funds from its war funds for the experiment.

At the same time, the commission demanded that the state civil service commission comply with previous requests for the employment of a blind placement director who would find jobs for blind persons in war production plants.

Members agreed they would not penalize dependents of service men if their salary allotments conflict with federal-state social security grants such as old age assistance, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind.

The commission said it would consider the soldier or sailor's allotment to his family as directed only to persons he designates and would continue paying grants to other members of the household. Otherwise, it was said, the new income must be deducted from the grant.

Counties Get $341,625

The commission appointed Alexander Handel, child welfare consultant, to be director of the new civilian war assistance program.

He will be paid with federal funds.

Allotments of $341,625 to the counties for October relief purposes included the following:

Alger, $800; Baraga, $1,600; Chippewa, $1,000; Delta, $9,000; Dickinson, $2,000; Gogebic, $4,500; Houghton, $8,500; Iron, $2,200; Kent, $10:000; Keweenaw, $1,615; Luce, $400; Mackinac, $1,000; Menominee, $1,800; Muskegon, $3,000; Marquette, $1,500; Ontonagon, $1,500; Schoolcraft, $1,200; out-county Wayne, $25,000; Detroit, $189,000..

ships had destroyed eight more German guns and a large group of enemy troops in yesterday's fighting, and semi-official front dispatches said the Red marines thus far had suffered damage only to one armored speedboat.

Red marines were using these speedboats for disruptive riverland raids on German supply lines and artillery sites, the dispatches said.

In the Mozdok area of the mid-Caucasus the Russians acknowledged a withdrawal from one populated place. Soviet gun crews were credited with destroyed 12 Nazi tanks and a German cavalry company before that occurred. The Germans presumably still are some 50 miles west of the Grozny oil fields.

The Germans were reported trying to drive wedges into Soviet positions meanwhile in the Sinyavino area in the Leningrad defense belt. One Russian sergeant alone was credited with demolishing nine light German tanks and wiping out a German platoon in the fighting there.

Town In Ruins

The Russians emphasized that Stalingrad still was in peril because of the Germans' disregard of "colossal losses," but the Red garrison thus far has held out for a month since the Germans began their direct assault on the city August 25.

The Germans announced a penetration of the southern part of the city as long ago as Sept. 13, but the Russians first acknowledged fighting on the northwestern outskirts on Sept. 17.

At the end of a month of direct assault Stalingrad was a city of flame, bursting bombs, charging tanks and ruined buildings spouting fire from machine-guns and automatic rifles.

German tanks, in masses as large as 200, smashed again down the streets; furious fire from the barges and boats of the Volga river flotilla, moving back and forth amid bombs and mines, pounded into the axis lines and positions on the banks above and below Stalingrad.

For 24 hours the mighty German assault showed no gain in Soviet official records, while successive communiques announced Red army successes in the counter assault on a considerable front above the city. This counter offensive is supported by both bombers and fighters and by powerful tank and artillery forces.

("Street fighting in Stalingrad is continuing with undiminished bitterness," said the German high command communique. "During the course of strong Soviet counter-attacks from a northern direction, 34 Soviet tanks were destroyed.")

Minneapolis, Sept. 24 (AP)—A new Minnesota football team, a passing, razzle-dazzle outfit instead of the usual Gogher steamroller, will take the field against Pittsburgh here Saturday.

Coach George Hauser held a final two-hour passing drill today as he put on the finishing touches for the Gophers' opening game. Minnesota will be out for its first win of the 1942 season and its 18th consecutive victory.

Passenger miles traveled on scheduled planes in 1941 totaled 1,492,000,000—a 30 per cent increase over 1940.

STATE SCHOOL LAWS STUDIED

Commission Is Created By Governor to Frame Recommendations

Lansing, Sept. 24 (AP)—Governor Van Wagoner today created a 17-member study commission to recommend revision of the Michigan school laws under which, he said, administration of funds have proved wasteful and ineffective.

Van Wagoner said the commission, representing both rural and urban views, would be asked to present its recommendations to the legislature.

The governor criticized the existing formula for distributing state aid to the schools which already has been described as ambiguous by the courts and blamed by Eugene B. Elliott, superintendent of public instruction for conflict between urban and rural districts.

Funds Wasted

The state government, Van Wagoner asserted, takes an "indefensible" position when it "blindly approves, year after year, funds for public education without an adequate and complete understanding of the formula."

Legislation, he said, was needed to eliminate such conditions as:

School districts with as few as two pupils and supervisory personnel exceeding in numbers the entire teaching staff and school population.

Approximately 1,500 districts having 15 or fewer pupils and some villages divided into two school districts with dual school facilities, staffs and maintenance costs although the schools were within walking distance of each other.

Overlapping school bus routes causing "intolerable" waste of tires and transportation facilities.

Communities which escape all of the burden of supporting their schools, the state paying 100 per cent subsidy to educate their children.

Titus Appointed

Van Wagoner said the commission, officially designated the Michigan public education study commission, must take action made "imperative" by the war crisis.

The commission is composed of Dr. Elliott, chairman; Dr. Arthur Moehlman, professor of school administration at the University of Michigan School of Education; Dr. John F. Thaden, Michigan State college department of sociology; Robert S. Ford, Ann Arbor, director of the bureau of governmental research; Edward R. Butler, administrative research director of the Detroit board of education; S. H. Nisbet, Fremont, president of the Michigan Education association; Mrs. J. C. Parker, Grand Rapids, president of the Michigan Congress of Parents and Teachers; W. G. Armstrong, Niles, master of the Michigan State Grange; Clark Brody, Lansing, executive secretary of the Michigan State Farm Bureau and member of state board of agriculture; C. P. Titus, Escanaba, Delta county school commissioner; Chester F. Miller, Saginaw superintendent of schools; Arthur Elder, Detroit, executive secretary of the Michigan Federation of Teachers; Frank Marquart, educational director of the Ford Local, UAW-CIO; Rep. John P. Espie, Eagle, Republican chairman of the house ways and means committee; Rep. Joseph F. Nagle, Detroit Democrat; Senator James T. Milliken, Traverse City Republican, and Senator Stanley Nowak, Detroit Democrat.

Republican Convention Sparked By Ferguson

BY G. MILTON KELLY

Detroit, Sept. 24 (AP)—Ignoring strong undercurrents of discord for the moment, delegates to the Republican state convention put on a demonstration of unity and harmony at their pre-convention banquet here tonight, sparked by their fiery nominee for U. S. senator, Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson.

Sharing the speaking program with him were Harry F. Kelly, whom the Republicans chose unanimously in the primary election as their standard bearer, and the Republican national chairman, Joseph W. Martin, Jr.

No Pulling Punches

Ferguson, who has promised a "no kid gloves" campaign, kept his word in a free-swinging attack upon his Democratic rival, U. S. Senator Prentiss M. Brown, of St. Ignace.

Reciting a list of clients of the legal firm of Brown and Fenlon at St. Ignace, of which the senator is a member, Ferguson told the banquet crowd:

"I will insist that as a senator he (Brown) has accumulated one of Michigan's most lucrative corporation law practices."

He asked Republicans to adopt as a campaign slogan, "Ferguson-for-senator; Brown-for-attorney-at law, St. Ignace."

"I confidently expect to fall heir, by vote of the people of Michigan, to the senate seat now occupied by my opponent," the judge declared. "But I shall not inherit his law practice." Holders of public office, he asserted, "should abandon the representation of any special groups."

"Why," Judge Ferguson demanded, "when for 10 months no action was taken (by the senate) against inflation, must our junior senator suddenly get so busy on the subject that he must campaign only by wire from Washington?"

Hall Raps McKay

He accused his opponent of serving as "senator on a part time basis" and promised he would be "on the job" if he should win.

Against the backdrop of the oratory, including a plea by Kelly for harmony, unity and victory, characters in the convention drama moved toward a battle of words as they prepared for the formal business tomorrow of nominating candidates for secretary of state, attorney general, auditor general, state treasurer and supreme court justice.

Rudely jarring the talk of harmony came a public "invitation" by Herbert W. Hall, executive secretary of the Wayne county Republican precinct organization, to National Committeeman Frank D. McKay to remain away from the convention.

McKay showed up, well in time for the banquet, and countered:

"Who is this man? I don't know him, and I'll pay no attention to him. When he can show me that he has converted Wayne county into a Republican party, then I'll concede his right to worry about the outstate counties."

Selfish Motive Seen

Hall's organization has fought McKay and Edward N. Barnard, Detroit politician and old political ally of McKay, calling them "bosses."

The "invitation" to McKay declared: "We frankly feel that McKay's presence at this convention is solely for the purpose of satisfying his own selfish interests to the end that in his defense against federal indictments still pending against him he will attempt to show that the Democrats are prosecuting him unduly because of the fact that he is Republican national commiteeman from Michigan."

Hall announced his organization's intention to seek to beat any candidate who might be identified as a "McKay man."

A stir of excitement moved in the delegate ranks over the insistence of Gerald L. K. Smith, one time lieutenant of the late Huey Long, that he be allowed to address the convention as a defeated candidate for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator.

The party's state central committee empowered the state chairman, John R. Dethmers, to invite all or none of the defeated primary election aspirants, as he saw fit. Dethmers announced he would confer during the night with Smith, and demand the right to censor his remarks.

Opposition for Rushton?

Kelly, nursing a sore throat, spoke only briefly, reiterating his intention to keep his campaign devoid of personalities in clashes with Governor Murray D. Van Wagoner, his Democratic oupponent.

Insisting he would not seek to dictate the slate of nominees, Kelly's forces let it be known they would not countenance dictation by anyone else, and would step in if they disapproved of anyone who seemed to be gathering momemtum.

There was no avowed opposition to the bid of Auditor General Vernon J. Brown for renomination, but rumor still insisted Thomas Read, defeated aspirant for lieutenant governor, might contest for the attorney general nomination with the incumbent Republican, Herbert J. Rushton.

Delegates watched closely a race between State Senator Herman H. Dignan of Owosso, Arthur E. Summerfield, Flint automobile dealer, and William A. Irving of Sandusky for the nomination for secretary of state, the office Kelly now holds. Senator D. Hale Brake of Stanton, Senator Earl L. Burhans of Paw Paw and Philip T. Bennett of Flint waged a triangular contest for state treasurer. Bennett is a former deputy treasurer.

For supreme court justice, forces friendly to Circuit Judge Leland W. Carr of Lansing and Circuit Judge Earl C. Pugsley of Hart were buttonholing delegates all over the place.

ELECTION HELD IN LEGION SONS

Bob Boyle Is Captain; Boys Study Manual of Arms

Election and installation of officers featured a meeting of the Escanaba Sons of the American Legion at the Legion hall last night.

The list of officers includes: Captain, Bob Boyle; first lieutenant, Clayton Houle; second lieutenant, Dick Henderson; adjutant, Jim Harvey; finance officer, Bill Miron; sergeant-at-arms, John Houle; chaplain, Bill Henderson; historian, Carl Nelson.

Clifford Vadnais, commander of Cloverland Post 82, American Legion, acted as installing officer. After the business meeting and installation lunch and ice cream was served by the boys.

fixed. Then, just as the Cleveland train was starting up, the Ambassador, passenger express from Detroit also bound for Washington, came piling into the rear.

The diesel locomotive of the Ambassador sheared under the Pullman car at the rear of the Cleveland train, tossed it sideways into a fast freight westbound on the adjoining track.

The Pullman was telescoped and set afire, and the car ahead of it damaged. The diesel locomotive tipped over on its right side, burst into flames. Fifteen box cars of the freight jumped from the track and some were wrecked, their cargo of steel piping splintered and piled up like a log jam; the baggage car on the Ambassador overturned and caught fire. Flames spread to debris of the freight cars.

C&NW BOOSTS WAR PROGRAM

More Than 1600 Workers Now Engaged With Armed Forces

Much has been said about the manner in which the American railroads have swung into high gear to "keep 'em rolling" for victory, taking on sharp increases in passenger and freight traffic to meet the demands of a nation at war. Just one of many instances is the rail transportation of 4,500,000 troops in the first five months of this year in addition to regular passenger traffic.

The American railroads, however, are doing much more than meeting the freight and passenger transportation demands placed upon them. An excellent example of their accomplishments, all of which have direct bearing on the war effort, is indicated in the following about just one railroad—the Chicago and North Western Railroad company. R. L. Williams, chief executive officer of the company, points to these accomplishments as typical of railroads and their employes throughout the country:

1. More than 1,600 employes of the North Western are now in the armed services with many of these men at battle stations all over the world.

2. More than 22,800 employes of the company are buying war bonds at the rate of $3,865,000 annually. All these purchases are made on the voluntary payroll allotment plan.

3. North Western employes and officials have contributed many thousands of dollars in recent months to worthy organizations helping in the war effort. These include the American Red Cross, United Service Organization, Navy Relief, United China Relief and others.

4. The North Western constructed in its Chicago passenger terminal a lounge for the exclusive use of service men. Operated under the auspices of the USO, the lounge is frequented daily by hundreds of selectees and men in uniform.

5. Since the outbreak of the war in Europe approximately three years ago, the North Western railway has been conducting a continuous scrap clean-up campaign, as a result of which it has made available during the three-year period 9,749,208 lineal feet, or 116,943 net tons of second-hand and scrap rail; 111,750 net tons of scrap from retired locomotives and cars; 257,343 net tons of miscellaneous metal scrap, or a total of over 486,000 net tons.

Briefly Told

To Plant Trout—Word was received yesterday by Walter Nelson, president of the Wolverine Conservation association, from Stanley Shust, fisheries supervisor at Thompson that a shipment of 2,000 legal sized brook trout would arrive here for planting in the Escanaba river. The truck load of fish will be at the Conservation Department headquarters on North 21st street at 10:30 o'clock this morning and sportsmen interested are invited to assist in the planting.

Tank Boss

Important credit for the almost overnight transformation of Flint's Fisher Body plant 1 into an actively producing tank arsenal has been given James E. "Bud" Goodman, 37-year-old assistant director of the tank building program. Goodman, whose hobby is tools and whose chief task has been to find or build them in the conversion process, says "getting the feel" of the job is most important factor in starting those big M-4's rolling off the assembly line.

Is Promoted—W. A. Schoonenberg, of the Medical Detachment, S. C. U. 1953, Camp Callow, San Diego, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Schoonenberg, 613 South Tenth street, has been promoted to the rank of Corporal.

Master Sergeant Now—Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Harold Johnston, 319 North Eighteenth street have received word that their son, Clayton, has been promoted to the rank of master sergeant in the United States army. He is stationed at Pasadena, Calif., with the 12th Ordnance Battalion. Clayton, who was the first Escanaba youth to enlist after the selective service act was passed, is now attending a training school to become a warrant officer.

Johnston

At Mitchell Field—Pvt. John F. Pearson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pearson, 708 South Twelfth street, who enlisted in the Detached Medical Department two weeks ago is now stationed at Mitchel Field, Long Island, N. Y.

Up In Alaska—Mr. and Mrs. George Cholger, Sr., of Ford River, have received word that their son, Corp. George J. Cholger is now stationed with the U. S. army in Alaska. He reports he is feeling fine and that he likes army life very much.

Ryberg Promoted — Clarence Ryberg, of Hermansville, who is stationed at Camp Shelby, Miss., has been promoted to Private First Class. He left with the April contingent.

Now a Corporal — Joseph N. Furlick of Hermansville has been promoted to the rank of Corporal. He is stationed at Camp Adair, Corvallis, Ore.

Haines Transferred—Sgt. Walter G. Haines of Hermansville, who has been stationed at Victorville, Calif., has been assigned to Carlsbad, New Mexico.

In England—Pvt. William G. Mattson in a letter to his folks in Hermansville writes that he has arrived safely in England. He was formerly stationed at Boise, Idaho.

Aviation Cadet—Carroll Raymond Norden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Norden of Perkins, is now enrolled as an aviation cadet at the Army Air Forces Pre-Flight School for Pilots at Maxwell Field, located on the outskirts of Montgomery, capital of Alabama. Cadet Norden attended Northern Michigan College of Education in 1938-40, and was a school teacher when he was accepted as an aviation cadet in Milwaukee on July 13, 1942. His father, Emil Norden, served a year during the last World War.

Carpenters Needed For Work On Locks

The local office of the United States Employment Service announced yesterday that they have a large number of openings for carpenters and laborers at the Soo locks. This is war production work of highest priority and they are working 56 hours per week.

Carpenters are wanted to construct forms to mold concrete walls. The rate of pay is $1.25 per hour and individuals must have their own hand tools.

Three hundred laborers are also needed on this lock construction project and the rate of pay for labor is 70 cents an hour. Individuals must have proof of citizenship and must be physically able.

Anyone interested in the above positions are urged to apply at once to their nearest office of the United States Employment Service as these workers are urgently needed. In Escanaba apply at the United States Employment Service, 1323 Ludington street.

EICKMEYER HEADS DEMOES

Menominee — Otto Eickmeyer, Jr., local representative for the Red Star Yeast company and alderman of the Fifth ward, was named chairman of the Menominee county Democratic committee at a meeting of county candidates yesterday afternoon, following the party's convention at the city hall council chambers.

Jerry Poupore, of Spalding, former county board supervisor, was named treasurer. Vice chairmen named were Mrs. Katherine Revord, Powers; Mrs. Ann Radue, Hermansville; Robert Beaudoin, Stephenson; Charles Schlenvogt, Ingalls, and Mrs. Katherine M. Mathisen, of Menominee.

BUILDING RAID TOWER

Iron Mountain — Construction has been started on the air-raid spotter's post atop Pine Mountain, and the station will be in operation by about Oct. 1, OCD officials said today.

The structure, situated on the highest peak of the hill, will be 16 feet high and eight feet square, with an eight-foot-square platform at the top, for the observer. A shelter will be built at the bottom, for use of observers on single shifts who "spell off" on duty.

Cost of the tower will be met jointly by Iron Mountain, Kingsford and Breitung township.

Elmer Hicks and N. C. Bartholomew, chief air raid wardens for Iron Mountain and Kingsford, today issued an urgent call for volunteers.

It requires 300 years to create one inch of peat fuel, according to geologists.

A new process for making synthetic rubber from grain has been announced which is said to produce eight pounds of rubber per bushel and to cost less than 20 cents per pound.

Newspaper Week

OCTOBER 1 to 8 has been proclaimed as National Newspaper Week by Governor Van Wagoner, who said the press of the nation constitutes a vigilant army on our home front.

It is with this nation's entry into the war that the public realizes the important role the newspaper plays in the affairs of the local community and the country as a whole. With its every issue it builds morale for people of its community and sends assurance to the men of the armed forces in camps and on the fighting fronts that the folks at home are back of them.

The newspaper leads and encourages the gathering of scrap so essential to our production of war equipment for our men on the battle fronts. It promotes the assistance the government must have from all of us in financing the war through the purchase of war bonds. It has led and promoted the needed assistance of the Red Cross and the USO.

With such a record of service, it is proper and altogether fitting for the people of America to pause for a time to consider the value of the newspaper to all of us collectively and to each as an individual. It is for that purpose that Newspaper Week was established.

Manager Plan Grows

WHEN Houston, Tex., becomes a city manager city next January, it will be the twenty-second of the 92 municipalities with more than 100,000 population to operate under this form of government. Two other larger cities—Cincinnati and Kansas City—already operate under the city manager system.

Houston is one of 12 municipalities adopting the council-manager plan this year. In July, Petroleum county, Mont., 1,675 square miles in area, adopted provisions of the state county-manager enabling act, becoming the first in that state and seventh in the nation to enter the ranks of manager counties. Other localities adopting city manager government in 1942 were: Mill Valley, Cal.; Hazel Park and Ludington, Mich.; Mechanic Falls, New Portland and Smyrna, Me.; Lower Marion Township and West View, Pa.; West Columbia, Tex.; and Bennington and Brattleboro, Vt.

A total of 557 cities and counties, all except 23 of which are in the United States, now operate under city manager government. This represents a gradual growth of the manager idea throughout the nation.

Of course, there are some cities that have abolished the manager form of government, but these losses have been offset by the gains. That some cities have dropped the manager plan is not to its discredit, however.

There have been other factors involved. Usually, it is a case of selfish politics, again achieving dominance when the citizens became apathetic and neglected their civic responsibilities. They allowed, for instance, the election of councilmen, who thought more of their own political advantages than the general welfare of the city. Perhaps, they were using their municipal offices as a means of advancement into larger political arenas.

These and other political causes have wrecked manager government in some communities. But the record shows, too, that in the over-all picture the manager form has meant more efficient and satisfactory local government in America. And there is no stopping its upward trend.

Doing Better This Time

MAYBE you've noticed the uniform courtesy and politeness of Upper Peninsula railroad passenger trainmen this year. Many people are finding that it's a pleasure to ride the cushions and to let the engineer do the driving, while thoughtful train crews do everything possible for the comfort of the traveler.

It wasn't always that way. In the good old days of Commodore Vanderbilt — he had been the owner of a small ferry boat so people called him Commodore—and for many years after, passengers on most of our railways were of small account and were properly snubbed and kept in their places. This wasn't the universal rule, of course, but discourtesies were all too frequent, so that when the automobile entered the picture many thousands of Americans discontinued railroad train riding, as they thought, for good. There are multitudes of Upper Peninsula folks who haven't made even a short journey by train for years.

And now many of these people are resuming a mode of travel which they never expected to employ again. Trains are better equipped than they used to be, and they make better time. Best of all, the lines have learned their lesson, and exceeding politeness to passengers is the rule. A conductor or a brakeman of the crusty old school could hardly last long under the present dispensation. Word has come down from above that grouchiness and bad manners have no place in modern passenger service, and that amiability and good behavior are expected of every man who contacts the traveling public.

To tell the truth, the bus companies are setting the pace for the railroads when it comes to pleasant public relations. Have you ever noticed the winning ways of bus drivers, and the lengths they go to please their customers? Railroad men are finding that they, too, can be civil to the traveling public, and that such an attitude pays well. There is no fighting for business today, as all lines of transportation are busy, but some day the war will be over. When that time comes, today's civilities and courtesies will not be forgotten. In the long run politeness and consideration never fail to return good dividends. This fact, now well recognized, augurs well for your comfort the next time you enjoy a journey by train.

Invasion Imminent?

BRITISH radio broadcasts to the people on the French coast this week advised them to evacuate because of plans of the United Nations to launch an offensive.

Just when the invasion would be undertaken was not disclosed, of course, but the broadcasts explained that a huge offensive was being prepared and that it would commence when conditions are appropriate. The warnings were being given to avert unnecessary bloodshed among the French civilian population, according to the radio announcements broadcast in the French language.

Quite naturally, speculation will be rife as to whether the opening of the second front is close at hand or whether is a British version of the "war of nerves," designed to draw Nazi forces from the Russian theater of conflict.

It does not appear likely that the British are naive enough to think that they can fool the Nazi military staff with mere radio threats. Bluffs cannot be resorted to indefinitely, and eventually there must be show of military power. The United Nations are assembling a large force of men and arms on the British Isles preparatory to an invasion. The Germans know that and have already taken whatever precautionary measures they consider necessary.

The British radio warnings indicate that aerial bombardment of the French coastal areas on a scale much heavier than ever attempted before is in the offing. We'll have to soften up the Nazi defenses considerably before we can risk an invasion, judging from the experience in the Dieppe raid. When this job is completed, the second front offensive will likely be under way.

WORK OR FIGHT
(St. Louis Globe-Democrat)

Testifying before the House Committee on Defense Migration, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, has declared that a national service la wgiving the government broad control over the nation's manpower "is inevitable." Whether such control is based on the voluntary co-operation of labor and industry as was urged yesterday by Wendell Lund, director of the War Production Board's Labor Division, or is based on arbitrary government regulations, it will be a form of regimentation which would be repugnant to the American people in normal times.

Universal service, however, is essential in total war and this nation cannot avoid it any more than our Allies. Nine months after Pearl Harbor we still lack a unified policy for the effective use of our manpower. The armed services are competing with war industries for men, and within the ranks of industry labor piracy, hoarding and kindred evils continue to flourish.

Until the needs of the armed services and of war production are clearly defined both the Selective Service and the War Manpower Commission are handicapped in manning the army and the production lines. Mr. Lund emphasized this point in his testimony before the committee yesterday, in which he conceded that "the greatest part of the job" of an effective manpower program is still to be done.

Mr. Lund believes the program can be worked out on the basis of the voluntary co-operation of labor and industry. He urged the use of labor inspectors in war plants to see to it that labor is used at maximum efficiency and suggested inventory controls to prevent employers from hoarding skilled workers.

The chairman of the War Manpower Commission is not so optimistic about voluntary co-operation. He told the committee that "persuasion and agreements" have not worked in many areas, that needless migration of labor continues, that pirating is unchecked, and that discrimination against employing women and minority groups is hampering war production.

Obviously these things cannot continue if this country is to mobilize and support an army of at least 10,000,000 men as is predicted by Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, head of the Selective Service. To support such an army will require at least 30,000,000 workers. This means that every able-bodied American must either work or fight.

Foreign News Analyzed

BY CONSTANTINE BROWN

Washington, D. C.—The resistance of the Russians at Stalingrad is considered no less than miraculous in Washington military quarters and it would not be surprising to see the Nazis stymied before that city-fortress just as they have been before Leningrad and Moscow.

In any event, according to competent observers, the losses suffered by the Axis forces—Nazi-allied rather than German—have been so great that it is questionable whether they will be able to advance much farther, even if Stalingrad does fall now.

The Soviet forces have never been routed since the Russian-German war began. They usually leave large rearguard forces with orders—which are taken literally—to fight to the last man, while the bulk of the Red forces withdraws in good order to positions in the rear. This happened last year when Marshal Someon Budenny was defeated in the Rostov area and is likely to happen again if Axis pressure compels the Russians to abandon Stalingrad.

—RUSSIAN AVIATION WEAKENED—

The principal difference between the 1941 and 1942 campaigns is that the Russian air force appears to be greatly weakened now. The Russian communiques speak about the shooting down of Nazi bombers by anti-aircraft artillery on the southern front (the Russians have a great quantity of this type of equipment at Stalingrad) but there is no mention of Soviet aviation taking an active part in the battle.

Several explanations are offered for this lack of activity on the part of the Soviet air force. One is that it has suffered real losses and replacements from abroad have not come in sufficient numbers. Another is that anti-aircraft artillery can deal with the situation since the Nazi planes fly low to assist the mechanized forces and infantry.

Still another explanation is that the Russian high command is concentrating available air forces on some other part of the front, farther north, because gasoline and oil are becoming difficult to obtain in the southern area. The pipelines from the Caucasian oil fields are now in Nazi hands and it is doubtful whether the Russians have substantial gasoline storage facilities close to the pipelines. Whatever facilities the Russians had in all probability have been destroyed by Nazi planes.

—AXIS FORCES TIRED—

Finally, it is possible that Axis forces, following their usual technique, have destroyed the air fields which were built to protect the Stalingrad area. The Nazis' air superiority is perhaps the greatest disadvantage the Soviet forces have to overcome and it has occurred for the first time in the 15 months since they began fighting the Axis.

It is felt in responsible military quarters in Washington and London that in the month of battling for Stalingrad, during which there has been no pause night or day, the Axis forces have been physically exhausted. Enormous reserves have been thrown in by the German high command because the troops could not remain in the battle lines for more than two or three days at a time.

Whether the Russians have begun withdrawal of their main forces to other positions and whether the reserves which are continually being rushed from the Urals are being used at Stalingrad or are taking up new positions in the direction of Astrakhan is unknown.

There are no foreign observers with any of the active Russian armies. Military attaches of the United Nations occasionally are taken on personally conducted tours of the front by the Russian general staff, but the zones chosen are usually those where nothing of importance is happening. The Russians explain that they have too great regard for the personal safety of our officers to permit them to risk their lives where fighting is bitter, as before Stalingrad.

Of course, the few American and British officers who are attached to Soviet headquarters are irked by the solicitous attitude of the Russians, but are helpless. They accept the courteous Russian explanations smilingly, because there is nothing they can do about it.

It was hoped that Prime Minister Churchill might have persuaded Premier Stalin to correct this situation during his visit to Moscow. It appears, however, that Mr. Churchill did not find an opportunity to discuss this matter with his Russian colleague and the military observers are still kept in Moscow or Kuibyshev.

Q. Why is a sailor's collar creased in three places? N. S. D.

A. The Navy Department says that when at sea a sailor never folds his spare clothing, but turns it inside out, rolls it tightly and stows it away in his locker. When unrolled for use the collar of the blouse is then creased in three places and the trousers are creased on the sides. The rolled clothing is stretched tightly, and as a rule no pressing is done.

Q. To what extent have war conditions affected the holding of conventions? L. S.

A. It is reported that about seventy-five per cent of the usual number will be held in the fields of industry, trade and professions.

Q. What part of a church is the nave? B. B.

A. The nave is the great aisle leading up to the altar. It is so called because of its resemblance to a ship.

Q. What is meant by the Japanese term Showa? C. L. M.

A. Upon the accession of an emperor, a new era is inaugurated. When Hirohito came to the throne in 1926 the era was named Showa, meaning light and peace.

Q. Which President held the most Federal offices before becoming President? N. T.

A. Thomas Jefferson. He was a member of the Provincial Congress, delegate to the Continental Congress, United States Senator, Minister to France, Cabinet member, and Vice President.

Q. Who originated the strip tease act in burlesque? M. B. R.

A. Carrie Finnell is generally credited with the idea and originated it in Cleveland, many years ago.

Q. How large are sunspots? R. V.

A. There have been some spots with a diameter of 50,000 miles. Astronomers regard as small a spot that measures less than 8,000 miles.

Q. Should a bride rehearse her wedding? D. V. O.

A. The bride supervises her wedding rehearsal, but does not take part in it. A friend usually is asked to be her understudy.

Q. How fast did Paderewski play? L. E. H.

A. In the fastest part of the Hungarian Rhapsody, Paderewski was timed at 26 notes per second.

Q. When was Gray's Elegy written? Was it a success? C. M.

A. Gray's Elegy written in a Country Churchyard was first published in 1750. It was an instant success and before the middle of the 19th century had appeared in eleven Latin, seven Greek, thirteen Italian, fifteen French and six German versions.

Q. Are any persons drawing pensions arising from the War of 1812? E. A.

A. One daughter of a veteran of the War of 1812 is still receiving a pension from the government.

Hollywood Column

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

How a Chinese boy parlayed a Brownie camera, a pair of blue eyes and a black velvet curtain into a fortune sounds like a Horatio Alger story in technicolor. It's the story of James Wong Howe, one of the screen's greatest cameramen—a story as fabulous as Hollywood itself.

The Brownie camera helped him learn the rudiments of photography as a youngster in a small town near Portland, Ore. The blue eyes belonged to silent film star Mary Miles Minter.

The black velvet curtain accidentally happened to be behind Howe when he snapped Miss Minter's photograph—a prank of fate which elevated him from third assistant to chief cameraman.

Film in those days was inferior to modern celluloid. One of its faults was "washing out" blue eyes to almost whiteness. Mary Miles Minter was a blue-eyed blonde. But in Howe's snapshot, taken with a cheap still camera, she had lovely dark eyes.

James Wong Howe was as amazed as Mary Miles Minter. He didn't know how or why it happened. But when the elated star asked him, "Can you make my eyes dark with a movie camera?" he assured her he could.

* * *

REFLECTION DID IT

He couldn't recall just how the camera was set, but when he went back to the stage where he took the picture he found the reason. Miss Minter was facing a wall covered with a black velvet curtain when he took the picture. The reflection gave her the dark eyes.

From then on Howe was Mary Miles Minter's favorite cameraman.

Behind him is a record of 17 years photographing the screen's top stars and pictures — the first man to recognize the merits of panchromatic film—the first to use low key lighting—the first to capture moods on film—the first to discover need for new types of camera lenses when talking pictures eliminated noisy arc lights.

But like most Hollywoodsmen, James Wong Howe has his ups and downs. The talking pictures he improved almost ended his career. He'd had a salary tiff with MGM and took a vacation in China to cool off. While he was away "talkies" were born and when he returned to Hollywood no one would hire him because he'd never worked on a sound picture.

* * *

MADE OWN TALKIE

Turned down by all the studios, he decided to make his own talkie—a movie for the Japanese market. Not until the picture was completed did he discover there were only two theaters wired for sound in all of Japan.

Now he had to get a job and once again he made the rounds. Producer Harry Sherman gave him a nine-day job photographing a western. He did another quickie for Columbia, then got back on the cinematic map for his work in "Trans-Atlantic" at Fox.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30, 1942.
Major Robert S. Allen,
Third Army Maneuvers,
Leesville, La.

Dear Bob:

My brother-in-law has been visiting us and I am in a bad humor. I suppose I shouldn't be, because he is a swell guy, but every morning he gets on my nerves. He doesn't know how to read a newspaper. He sits at the breakfast table and musses the paper all up. He gets the sports pages mixed up with the society news, and the comics next to the war news. It's like seeing your best friend tortured. Then if he doesn't leave the paper in the bathroom, he jams it in his pocket and takes it downtown.

It seems to me that if he realized all the time and effort which goes into a newspaper, all the cable tolls that are spent, all the lives that are risked on battle fronts, all the work we go to to double-check a story, he wouldn't be so disrespectful.

I admit he comes by it honestly, because his sister (my wife) is always complaining about the newspapers that get stacked up in the basement which I won't let her throw out. Once or twice when I have been out of town she has thrown them out anyway, causing me to go all the way up to the Library of Congress for duplicates.

But the other day I was reading through some of these old papers and the columns you and I wrote on the Spanish Civil War. It's history now, but sometimes you can learn a lot from history. It saves you from repeating mistakes.

—U. S. AIDED HITLER—

Everyone realizes now that the Spanish Civil War was a miniature rehearsal of this war, and that if we could have stopped Hitler and Mussolini in Spain, it probably would have stopped them from starting the big show.

They were testing out the democracies And the democracies failed in the test.

You remember that the great majority of the American people saw the Spanish war very clearly as the opening battle between the dictators and the democracies. The Gallup Poll showed this. The newspaper editorials showed this. The delegations of people who came to Washington to demand the lifting of the arms embargo showed this. The country, as usual, was far ahead of Washington, but the country couldn't do anything about it.

And not even Borah's eloquence could change the President.

You remember also that I went up to Hyde Park to talk to the President on this. He seemed to be sympathetic, but nothing happened. At the time we thought the State Department was sabotaging the White House, and there was no question but that a great many of the umbrella-carrying boys around Mr. Hull were heart and soul with Franco and believed that the dictators should have a better place in the sun.

—U. S. FOLLOWS BRITAIN—

However, there was another factor, and it wasn't entirely the Church—though that counted too. It was the fact that for years it has been State Department policy to follow the lead of the British on all things pertaining to Europe. And the British Government wanted Franco to win.

Lord Halifax and Sir Eric Geddes and Sir Sammy Hoare and Sir John Simon and Chamberlain all were thinking of British investments in Spain, were worried about the Blum Socialist Government in France, were scared to death over the effect of a Spanish Republican victory on British labor.

Not many people outside Washington, or even in Washington realize how deeply that policy is imbedded in our system. For years it has been the first rule of the State Department in the morning, and the last rule at night. For a while it was based on sound logic, namely that we had no fleet in the Atlantic and we must depend on the British.

But now things have changed, and I think it's time for the policy to change. I think it should change not merely because of our tragic mistake in following the British in Spain, not only because we now have a navy equal to Britain's in the Atlantic, but because we want to win the peace after this war.

—WILL THIS BE LAST WAR—

That peace, as I see it, has got to be one in which we play a very important part. We can't back out of things immediately after the war is over as we did last time. We've got to stay in pitch and make sure that war is not going to crop up again in twenty years. If we don't do that, if we don't make sure that there isn't going to be another war for a long, long time, then—what's the use?

And the time to begin exercising our own independence regarding foreign policy is right now. Partnership in this war means shouldering political headaches as well as military headaches. But although we have to help defend India, we have nothing to say about the very difficult political factors which may bring the defeat of India. God knows we don't want the responsibility! But we have it whether we want it or not. And since British policy affects our policy in the Philippines and our own color policy here at home and in all the Pacific Islands, we might as well get in and pitch now.

Of course, the President has a lot to do and can't attend to everything. But someone, somehow has got to get in and show the public that we can love the British, fight for the British, but not be the tail on the British political kite.

For if we don't iron this out right now I'm afraid that immediately the ink is dried on a peace treaty, reaction will set in. Our isolationist friends around Chicago will begin twisting the British lion's tail again, and we'll find ourselves going it alone—and—heading for another war twenty years later.—Drew.

Start Christmas Shopping Now For Men Abroad

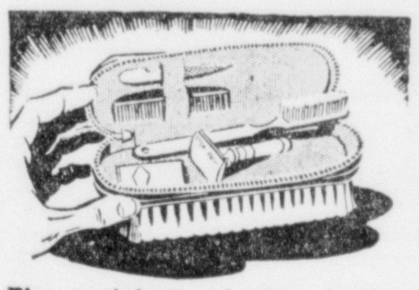
By MARGUERITE YOUNG
NEA Service Staff Writer

New York.—The end of October is the deadline for mailing Christmas parcels to American fighters overseas.

Uncle Sam and the stores are teamed up to get the stream of gifts going "during the period between October 1 and ending November 1, the earlier the better." Those quoted words are most important in the directions just issued by the Post Office in Washington for Christmas mailings of everything, even greetings cards, to frontliners.

Accordingly, specialty shops and department stores already have opened service men's gift bars. They're doing business now, briskly. Presents vary literally from shoes to sealing wax; ineed, wax, or rather the writing set of which it may be a part, is one of the most popular suggestions.

This convenient shower-room "apron" gives the service man a complete toilet kit within easy reach—even when there's no shower-room handy.



The recipient of this leather clothes brush will find he also has an overnight bag when he zips open the top. Contents include razor, blades, toothbrush, comb and nail file.

Others starred prominently are little-and-light things unusual ones especially . . . non-skid soap for a shower . . . a pneumatic pillow which, when deflated, folds snugly into a 6½ by 4½ inch envelope . . . the officer's chair that travels as a 29 by 6 inch bundle.

Before choosing, the wise shopper considers the regulations. For instance, givers are asked to save shipping space by holding gifts down in size. Just practically, the giver might figure a large gift is foolish. Those who have visited troops abroad point out, for instance, that an officer stationed in London for a stretch might go for a snazzy, portable, 15-quart shower on pulleys atachable anywhere, but what on earth would a man in the field do with it?

On the other hand, the public is "urged" not to include food and clothes, since both are provided adequately, and yet the Post Office itself gives detailed directions for wrapping "combination packages" including candy. Evidently the mother or wife or sweetheart who bundles some of her own home-made peanut brittle into a secure container wrapped in a pair of socks she has knitted for him is not unpatriotic.

So, study postal regulations and recommendations, use your sense of proportion, then shop. But do it now!

GOOD THINGS COME IN SMALL PACKAGES

Miniature gifts, very practical and inexpensive, are a six-by-four-by-one-inch jeep-pack holding razor and shaving powder in a black plastic container, also a toothbrush, steel mirror and styptic pencil . . . a clothesbrush with zippered leather top wherein he finds razor, blades, toothbrush, comb and nail file . . . a comb-file-tweezer-mirror kit that's smaller than a deck of cards . . . a first-aid kit in fine leather case the size of a pack of cigarettes . . . a pigskin writing set with lock and key.

Buyers report their scouts find the boys on this side avid for bath accessories, especially soap, which is precious abroad. Hence, the "stay-put" soap on a cotton cord to go around the neck . . . hence a set of three pottery containers of spicy cologne, talc, and after-shaving lotion sturdily packed in a little wood-veneered chest which becomes a safe-box when he's in camp.

Designed to avoid the hazards of precarious soap-groping in the shower is this "stay-put" arrangement which keeps the soap securely at hand by means of a cotton cord.

Smoking things are always welcome. Cigarettes . . . cigarette cases . . . his favorite tobacco. . . pipes . . . Especially good are air-tight, waterproof tobacco pouches, which come in every size and shape, many with service branch insignia on them.

For an officer who carries his clothes compactly and likes them neat, there's a folding leather trunk. It is carried like a suitcase, but it opens up and hangs up— a wardrobe to keep creases sharp.

If he hasn't a wrist watch, he certainly needs one. Many new ones come with Army or Navy insignia decorations.

A Fifth Avenue shop cautions customers against three mistakes which, returns show, are often made by women givers. The advice; don't send pajamas — no fighter wears 'em; don't send slippers — he puts his shoes on as he bounds out of bed; and don't send blankets—he's warm enough with regulation ones.

Do send extra chevrons and insignia, shopping counselors suggest, because the service man loses his. These are available, for officers, at many different prices . . . also many practical and sentimental pieces of jewelry.

Typical examples: swank pocket knives . . . and a postage-stamp-sized sterling silver photograph-holder, ringed to go on his watch-chain or identification tag, big enough to hold two faces cut from a favorite snapshot.

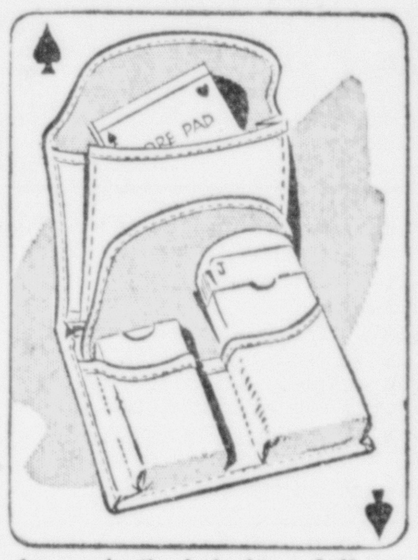
MAIL GIFTS IN U. S. AT CIVILIAN RATES

Regulations permit the mailing of this-side gifts on the same basis as parcel post for civilians, which means they can go any time during November. Outstanding choices are "extras"— regulation clothes from caps to officers' overcoats. Also guaranteed palate-tempters. Here, too, of course, the shopper will have to decide when to put practicability first, and when to take sentiment's suggestion.

A gift shop which asked service men themselves to name their preference suggests some gift packages. In one, there's writing paper, shampoo and a pocket-sized book. Another holds a button-shiner, a puzzle, and of all things—insect-repellent!

Candidate for most typical gift: a kit-and-kaboodle bag with separate pockets holding shoeshine articles, first aid, sewing and toilet kits. Unusual variations of the practical comfort: money-belts; a shower-room "apron" that makes his toilet articles stay put, right around the middle.



An ace in the hole for a dull evening in barracks is this playing card set, consisting of two packs and a score pad.

Tavern Man Fined For Illegal Sale

Ernest Beauchamp, local tavern operator, pleaded guilty in justice court here yesterday to a charge of selling beer to minors. He was fined $2 5and costs.

Beauchamp was arrested by city police as a result of an altercation in his tavern Saturday night.

ELECTRIC RATE IS COMPARED

Average Monthly Bill In Escanaba Is Now $3.63

Escanaba's "normal" home was paying at the start of this year an average monthly electric bill of $3.63 which was 93 cents more than the lowest typical bill and $3.37 less than the highest typical bill in Michigan for comparable service.

This is one of the facts on how much Escanaba consumers pay for electricity, which have been compiled and are now being published by the Federal Power commission.

A "normal" home is one which is not only lighted by electricity, but also uses it for small appliances and to run a refrigerator.

Lowest typical bill for such service is the $2.70 paid in Lansing, and highest is the $7 paid in L'Anse.

In Escanaba's population group, the highest bill for energy for lighting and refrigeration is $5 paid in Marquette while the lowest is $3 paid in Wyandotte, on the basis of a "typical" bill for such service, of 100 kilowatt hours.

Typical bill in Escanaba for 25 kilowatts (amount normally used for lighting and small appliances only) is $1.50, in contrast to 95 cents in Lansing, the lowest in the state, and $2.25 the highest, paid in Onaway.

Householders who cooked by electricity, as well as using it for lighting and refrigeration, use an average of 250 kilowatts of electricity each month, for which in Escanaba they paid $6.63. Highest bill for the same amount of juice was the $10.80 paid in Hart, and lowest bill was the $3.50 paid by Marquette householders.

A Proclamation

Whereas, Chapter No. 24 of the Disabled American Veterans will sponsor a "Forget-me-not" sale of flowers Saturday, Sept. 26, upon behalf of the disabled war veterans; and

Whereas, There are in our city a number of former war veterans who have been disabled as a result of their war service; and

Whereas, The flowers offered for sale are made by former servicemen now located in various hospitals, and the proceeds are used for the welfare work of the Disabled American Veterans;

Therefore, I, Sam Wickman, mayor of the city of Escanaba, hereby proclaim Saturday, Sept. 26 as "Forget-me-not" day, and urge the citizens of Escanaba to purchase these flowers as a small reminder that America deeply appreciates the sacrifices made by these heroes.

Dated this 24th day of September, 1942

Sam Wickman, Mayor.

REMOVING PAINT

A small vegetable brush has been found to give very sucessful results when used with paint remover to remove the old finish from furniture. Such a brush will remove paint from cracks, mouldings, and carved places without injury to the surface.

JAMES H. BURNS

The body of James H. Burns, 69, resident of Escanaba for many years, who died of asphyxiation caused by gas fumes from a heater Wednesday, will be in state at the Degnan Funeral Home chapel beginning at 7 o'clock this evening.

Services will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's church, the Very Rev. Fr. Thomas A. Kennedy officiating, and burial will be in the family lot in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Nick Wurth, Horace Provo, Vern Boyle, John Kirkpatrick, Con McCauley and George Stewart.

MRS. WILLIAM GARDIPEE

Funeral services for Mrs. William Gardipee, of Little Lake, who died Tuesday, will be held this morning at St. Anthony's church in Gwinn. Burial will be made in Gwinn cemetery.

CHIMNEYS

The chimney and flue of your heating plant is so important from the standpoint of its draft and the efficient operation of the plant itself that it is essential to keep it in good order.

It would seem that a dirty chimney would not draw well, and therefore it is important in the fall to have the chimneys well cleaned and all open joints in the masonry that may have opened up in the last few months filled up and completely sealed with mortar.

The chimney caps should be gone over, for if there is a broken cap the water is likely to seep through the crack into the brick-work below and cause damage.

Reptiles were the first four-footed animals to roam the earth.

FARMERS HIRE STUDENT HELP

High School to Issue Permits For Work In Potato Fields

A plan for supplying student labor to help harvest the potato crop in Delta county has been worked out through the office of the county agriculture agent and the high school in Escanaba. School authorities recognize the need for such labor and are anxious to cooperate with the farmers in this emergency. The plan, as worked out here, is designed to enable the farmers to secure all the help necessary and at the same time enable the students to make up school work missed.

In order to secure student help it is suggested that the farmers notify County Farm Agent E. A. Wenner of the number of boys needed or contact the Escanaba senior high school, phone 2122. In the event the farmer knows certain boys who wish to work for him, these boys should be instructed to obtain the proper application and consent forms from the high school office. When these have been properly filled out a permit from the school will be given the student, notifying the farmer that the student is available to help harvest the potato crop. Farmers are requested not to use students unless they have presented a permit from the school. Complete directions for obtaining student help are as follows:

Step one: Notify the high school (phone 2122) or the county agriculture agent of the number of boys needed or the names of the boys he plans to use.

Step two: Students will be given parent consent blanks which must be signed by the parent and returned to the high school office.

Step three: If, in the judgment of the school officials, the student will be able to miss school and not suffer in his work, he will be given a permit to help harvest the potato crop. Permits will be issued as soon as possible after the request comes in. In most cases this should not take more than an hour or so, thus assuring the farmer of help at the time it is needed.

SAVE SMALL ITEMS

Since "save" is the watchword on the home front, even such small items as clothespins and washlines call for their share of adequate care. A rope washline should be washed at least once a month in the washing machine, taken down, if possible, between usings; wire lines should be wiped off with a soapy cloth before each use and taken down and wound carefully after clothes are dried. Clothespin marks on clean clothes mean just that much more work—so be careful of clothespins, too. A monthly sudsing in warm soapy water and drying off in the air and sun should keep them usably clean.

ATTU ISLAND IS VITAL SPOT

Its Mountains Shrouded With Almost Perpetual Fog

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C. — A few weeks ago Attu Island, nearest spot to Asia under the American flag, was only a name on the map. Today it has become a vital spot in the defense of the North American continent.

The island is, according to experts of the Smithsonian Institution who have studied its fauna, flora and geology, the westernmost island of the Aleutian archipelago, a curved chain of lofty mountains more then 23,000 feet high, only the summits of which rise above the level of the sea. In fairly recent geological times the ocean level was much lower and there was a nearly continuous strip of land joining Alaska and Siberia.

The present climatic conditions on Attu are rather rigorous, the average summer temperature being only about fifty degrees, with a maximum of sixty-six. The winter temperatures, however, are not excessively low, the average being about twelve degrees Fahrenheit. It is one of the rainiest spots on earth, the yearly humidity average being about ninety per cent. The mountains are enveloped in almost perpetual fog. There may be 250 rainy days a year and as few as eight wholly clear days. In the mountains, temperatures, rainfall and winds are much more severe, often making these areas most difficult to live in.

Under these severe conditions, says Smithsonian botanists, it would be expected that the plant cover would be sparse. There are no trees on any of the Aleutians except for a few planted spruce trees at Dutch Harbor. This makes the problem of firewood complicated and building possibilities very limited.

Most of Attu Island is covered with a monotonous heath consisting chiefly of crowberries. In the valleys where plants are protected from the winds in winter by a heavy snow cover, there are meadows where are found many plants familiar in mountain meadows of the continental United States, such as larkspurs, violets, anemones, buttercups and numerous other species.

In these valleys underground streams are common. They are sometimes separated from the surface by only a thin crust and people have been known to break through. Thus it would be difficult, if not impossible, for profitable development for any use.

Attu Island, naturally, is very sparsely inhabited. The small population subsists entirely by fishing. There are no large mammals except whales. Some foxes and rats live there. Ravens and eagles are common, as well as various waterfowl. There are no ants or butterflies. Bees are few, but flies often are abundant and sometimes are an almost intolerable nuisance.

RED CROSS MEETING

Sault Ste. Marie—With the words of Mrs. Fred T. Murphy, national committeeman of the Red Cross Camp and Hospital Service Councils, ringing in their ears, to the effect that recreation facilities for service men in the Sault area are far more important than in Detroit or Fort Custer, delegates to the Fort Brady Camp and Hospital Service Council had returned to day to their various counties, determined to send their quotas of money, games, musical instruments and other things to Fort Brady not later than Oct. 15.

Mrs. Murphy, formerly Mrs. Frederick M. Alger of the Republican National committee, attended the conference of the Fort Brady Camp and Hospital council Tuesday afternoon at Fort Brady and, with aproximately 35 delegates from the counties of the Upper Peninsula and also from Cheboygan and Charlevoix counties, inspected the new hospital system west of the fort.

Cloth Hats Cap Climax of War Workers' Garb

By NEA Service

You can thank America's civilian army of war-industry workers for the fact that the old-fashioned cloth hat is making a comeback this fall.

The war workers are so given to their "uniform" of slacks and tieless shirts that the lads whose job it is to make men's heads look smart decided that our war workers should have a top-piece to harmonize with their casual costume.

As a result you're going to see a lot of cloth headgear after the straws have been laid away. These hats offer a welcome compromise between dress-up felts and cloth caps, and they're as appropriate for sport clothes as they are for working garb.

Two of them are shown above. The telescope hat, at left, is a water-repellent brown plaid tweed, with brown gabardine band and bound edge. Also of water-repellent fabric is the blue gabardine at right. It has a pinch-crown front and stitched brim. The gabardine band is dark blue, while the binding is lighter, for contrast.

Not that felt hats are out of the picture. Not by any means. The man who goes to work in a business suit will find that the hat makers have turned out a new and complete choice for fall, ranging from homburgs to "crushers."

The cloth hats are simply added starters, brought out to put the finishing touch to a prevalent and necessary ensemble.

APPEALS CONVICTION

Menominee — Jack McCarthy, 1113 Stanton street, Marinette, this afternoon took an appeal to circuit court from a conviction handed down by Marinette Police Judge Dan J. Corry after trial on a charge of running over a fire hose Saturday night on Carney avenue.

Judge Corry found McCarthy guilty this afternoon and fined him $1 and costs, after a three-hour trial. McCarthy admitted hitting the fire hose, but said it was so dark on the street he didn't see the hose until he hit it, and immediately stopped.

Communication

To all interested parents:

Upon reading the item in Sunday's Escanaba Daily Press concerning the resignation of Dr. Fred O. Tonney as director of the Delta County Health Unit, I found that the joint committee of the Delta County Medical Society and the health committee of the County Board of Supervisors agreed that the county health unit is performing useful and valuable functions throughout the county. They also agreed that the unit should be continued, not stating definitely whether it will or not.

Let us hope that there is no obstacle to remove the most helpful organization of our county. Without it, just stop and think, all interested parents, of the epidemics of contagious diseases, the immunization and vaccination problem (which has been so easily solved in the rural sections of our county with health clinics conducted in each community's local schools), the distribution of cod-liver oil, the physical examination of the pre-school children or summer round-ups held only since the last few years and which has proven a great advantage that we never exercised before, and very many other benefits too numerous to mention.

We are losing a very good director by the resignation of Dr. Tonney and we hope that a director will be hired very soon. If not, we fear that the whole health unit will be defrauded into another standing organization that cannot correspond in any way like our Delta County Health Department.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Charlotte Tousignant,
Secretary of Parent - Teacher Unit of Schaffer.

Parent-Teacher Meeting

The first meeting of the Parent Teacher unit was held at the Schaffer school Thursday evening with Mrs. Joseph LaVigne presiding. The following committees were announced to carry out the year's various programs:

Publicity committee—Mrs. Thomas Tousignant, chairman, Mrs. Arline Taylor and Mrs. Louis Racicot.

Membership — Mrs. Clarence Martin and John Cavadeas.

Program—Mrs. Frank Moraski, chairman, and Miss Adele Pineau.

Summer Round-Up—Mrs. Louis Tousignant and Mrs. Eugene Augér.

Parent and Adult Education, International Relations and Citizenship—Mr. S. McInnes.

Motion Picture and Library Service—Mrs. J. Shipman.

War Activities and Nutrition—Mrs. L. Ranguette.

Student Aid, Child Mental and Social Hygiene—Mrs. J. Michel.

The Founder's Day program committee will be announced at a later date.

The luncheon committee appointed by the president for the next meeting on October 15 will consist of the following women: Mrs. Clarence Martin, chairman, Mrs. Frank Moraski, Mrs. L. Mayrand, Mrs. Ed. Meyers and Mrs. Steve Martin.

Plan Skating Rink

It was planned that arrangements for an ice-skating rink be put through as a success comparing to previous years. An all-out effort will be done so by the volunteer helpers who are Louis Racicot, Joseph LaVigne and Omer Tanguay.

A Recreation committee for our next meeting will consist of Mrs. Clarence DeMarse, Mrs. L. Ringuette and Mrs. F. Moraski.

The new principal, Mrs. Joseph Shipman and S. McInnes, teacher of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, were introduced to the parents.

Personals

George Pepin spent a week in Detroit with relatives, returning here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Art LeClaire and family visited relatives in Iron Mountain on Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Perra, Theresa, Edward and Roy Seymour, Mrs. Thomas Tousignant and son Kenneth were business callers in Marinette Saturday.

Eugene Pilon visited his relatives in Niagara and Quinnesec Thursday and Friday before leaving the group of inductees for the army Tuesday morning.

Joyce Christensen is visiting with her mother in Appleton, Wis.

Mrs. Henry Seymour of Detroit arrived here Friday to spend a week with relatives. She will also visit her mother in Republic from Thursday until Saturday.

Correction

It was stated in an item printed recently that the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Katen Chapla, Joseph and Edward, were inducted into the army services. Both boys enlisted last summer instead of being inducted.

WAR ON PESTS TO BE PLANNED

Home Economic Leaders to Discuss Problem Next Week

Miss Olga Ludwick, Marquette, assistant state home demonstration agent, will conduct the first meeting of home economic leaders and club officers the last day of September and on October 1 and 2, it has been announced by E. A. Wenner, county agricultural agent.

The subject for the first of the four leader training programs will be "War on Household Pests."

A meeting for Bark River leaders only will be held Wednesday, September 30, at the home of Mrs. Clifford Olson, and Bark River officers only will meet Thursday evening, October 1, at the home of Mrs. Al Johnson.

Both leaders and officers of the Garden club will meet Thursday, October 1. The leaders' meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Albin Berg and the officers' meeting will be at the recreation center.

Leaders and officers of the Rapid River area will meet at the Rapid River high school on Friday, October 2.

All of the sessions, with the exception of the Bark River officers meeting, will start at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. Wenner declared yesterday, "During peace times it well behooves families to be on the alert as far as house flies, mosquitoes, mice, ants and clothes moths are concerned. During war time it is a necessity that families know how to control such household pests.

"We cannot afford to have food, houses or furnishings damaged nor can we afford to have sickness spread among our citizens. For these reasons this entire discussion will be devoted to the control of common household pests. Demonstrations will be given on construction of a fly trap and how to properly spread insect powders."

PERKINS YOUTH DIES OF BURNS

Alfred LaChance Injured While Working In Milwaukee

Second degree burns on his legs and body, suffered on September 14 resulted in the death Wednesday, September 23, of Alfred LaChance, 19, of 855 North Fourteenth street, Milwaukee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred LaChance, of Perkins.

LaChance, an attendant at a filling station at the corner of South 84th street and West reenfield avenue, was fatally burned when the overflow from a tank he was filling was ignited by a lighted match, and his coveralls caught on fire. He died in the County General hospital where he was taken following the accident.

He was born in Niagara, Wis., August 7, 1923, and moved with the family, as a child, to Perkins. He was a graduate of Perkins high school and a member of St. Joseph's church at Perkins.

Surviving are his parents, one sister, Loretta Mae, and two brothers, Ralph and Kenneth, a step-brother, Gary, and a step-sister, Catherine.

The body will be brought from Milwaukee this morning and will be taken to the Allo Funeral Home, and this afternoon at four o'clock will be removed to the home of his parents. Services will be held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, in Perkins, Rev. Fr. A. C. Coignard officiating, and burial will be made in Perkins cemetery.

POTATO SHOW TO BE OCT. 17

$510 In Cash Prizes To Be Awarded to Growers

The Delta county potato show will be held at the fairgrounds exhibition building on Saturday, Oct. 17, it was announced yesterday at the meeting of the directors of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

Henry Bathke, head of the Escanaba Potato Boosters association, reported that cash prizes, totaling $510, would be offered to farmers, who are competing in the annual potato growing contest. The prizes will be presented at a dance to be held at a rural hall to be selected later.

The primary election for the nomination of directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be held on Oct. 5, to be followed by the general election on Oct. 9. The following election committee will be in charge: Michael Farrell, chairman, Med Beaudoin, Wilbert Erickson, O. U. Harding, E. B. Harris, Nelson Jensen, Wm. Leiper, Walter Nelson, Delbert Paeske and Willard Rockburg.

Prune Appetizers

Here's a trick for "company" appetizers worth pasting in anybody's cookbook—a simple tid-bit as festive as you please. The artful treatment of plump cooked prunes, with a stuffing of American cheese, can turn those everyday breakfast fruits into the most elegant of pre-dinner tempters.

Here's the way it's done. Simply cook, cool, drain and pit large prunes. Fill the center of each with a piece of American cheddar cheese. Wrap a slice of bacon around each prune, fasten with toothpicks and broil them under low heat, turning frequently until the bacon is crisp. Remove the toothpicks—and serve each glorified prune on a small round of toast.

KUZMA OUT OF OPENING GAME

Knee Injury Will Force Wolverine Star From Great Lakes Game

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 24. (AP)—Tom Kuzma, star University of Michigan halfback, suffered a knee injury in practice yesterday and will miss the game with Great Lakes Naval Station Saturday, doctors announced today.

Kuzma, who had been counted upon to lead the Wolverine attack against the Sailors, is flat on his back in University hospital. Doctors said his injury had not been diagnosed, but it is not a fracture.

Kuzma suffered the injury on the last play in a scrimmage session yesterday. He was taken immediately to the hopsital, where the injury was first believed not serious.

Burst With Hope

Coach Fritz Crisler said he had not decided definitely who would replace Kuzma, but that Don Robinson probably will be shifted to Kuzma's place, with Paul White of River Rouge taking the halfback post vacated by Robinson.

Admittedly frightened, but bursting with hope, Michigan's 1942 football squad trotted through the lightest workouts today for its opening game.

Coach Fritz Crisler, after devoting two solid weeks to intensive hard work, had laid down his whip. The Wolverines brushed through one two-hour practice today, practicing plays, punting and passing and steering away from rough business that might spawn new injuries.

While football "experts" in all parts of the country are selecting the Blue Jackets to win this game, the ardor of the Wolverine players themselves has not slackened.

In their locker-rooms and at the training table, the players ooze confidence. And they realize they will be facing a team that has Bruce Smith, ex-Minnesota flash in the backfield; seven former pro gridders on the first team, and a mighty weight advantage everywhere.

A master psychologist in the shower-room, Crisler has armed his college youngsters with the trickiest, most elaborate offense ever given a Michigan eleven. To a man, they now believe Michigan has enough wallop to trip the giant Sailors.

While maintaining his basic single-wingback formation, Crisler has radically changed his style on the pattern of the much-publicized "T" formation.

Passes, reverses, and laterals have received as much attention here as in many camps where the "T" is an announced policy. Observers who have seen the Chicago Bears in action are struck by the shimilarity to this 1942 Crisler team in many basic matters.

Ten veterans and a sophomore will be in the Michigan starting lineup. Bob Wiese, the Jamestown N. D., fullback, is an almost certain starter. He will be the fourth sophomore ever picked for such a responsibility by Crisler. The others were Forest Evashevski, Al Wistert and Bob Westfall.

Three good men are eligible for right half, Don Robinson, Paul White and Frank Wardley. Robinson will probably get the first call. Capt. George Ceithaml will start at quarterback and remain there most of the game.

Ends Elmer Madar, and Phil Sharpe, tackles Wistert and Bill Pritula, guards Bob Kolesar and Julius Franks, and center Merv Pregulman comprise the forward wall.

Michigan reserve strength is dangerously weak at center, quarterback, fullback and the tackles.

Don Boor, Dearborn junior, started the season as regular fullback but a damaged leg will keep him on the sidelines. He is the only serious casualty.

Thomasville, N. C., leads the United States in chair manufacture.

Hazel E. Foster Will Lecture On "India" Monday

Hazel E. Foster, B. D., Ph. D., of Chicago, widely known traveler and lecturer, will speak on "India" under the sponsorship of the Mission Circle of the First Presbyterian church, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at the church.

The lecture is open to the interested public and members of the Escanaba Woman's club are issued a special invitation to attend. A tea will follow the lecture and a silver offering will be taken.

Dr. Foster, whose background included experience as a settlement worker at Hiram House, Cleveland, assistant at the Old Stone church, Cleveland, special work at Mansfield college, Oxford, England, and a number of years as professor and administrative dean of Presbyterian College of Christian Education, Chicago, spent from 1939 to 1941 on a world tour.

She was in India and Ceylon twenty months, teaching in theological and other colleges, schools, societies, churches and at summer conferences, and gained a wide knowledge of the people of India and their beliefs.

Rayon Hose Are Test-Tube Miracle

Gone are the days when rayon hose were baggy, shiny, ill-fitting—worn not at all by women of discriminating taste. However, thanks to the miracle of test-tube ingenuity, rayon hose have acquired beauty and wearing qualities to make them take their rightful place among the different types of hosiery!

The new rayon hose are really flattering. They're sheer, dull-textured and with the proper care—will give you highly satisfactory wear.

Rayon hose offer much to the modern woman of fastidious taste. It is extremely durable when completely dry. However, since it is weakest when wet—great care must be taken in laundering, preferably as follows: Wash your rayon hose after each wearing, as soon as you take them off. Use only mild soap suds and lukewarm water—cake soap rubbed into your hose will weaken the fibres. Dry over a smooth rod, away from sun or heat, after squeezing gently in a towel and allow from 24 to 84 hours for complete drying.

Another very interesting feature of rayon is that it does not soil readily—due to the smoothness of the fibre from which it is woven. They may be had in a full range of rich colors, which are dyed to retain their permanence.

The apple crop of Canada this year may reach a maximum of 12,000,000 bushels compared with 10,500,000 bushels in 1941, according to the Department of Commerce.

Church Events

Christian Science Churches

"Reality" will be the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Christian Science churches throughout the world on Sunday, Sept. 27.

The Golden Text (Lamentations 5:19) is: "Thou, O Lord, remainest for ever; thy throne from generation to generation."

Among the Bible citations is this passage (Eccl:3:14): "I know that whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever; nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it; and God doeth it, that men should fear before him."

Correlative passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following (p. 331): "The Scriptures imply that God is all-in-all. From this it follows that nothing possesses reality nor existence except the divine Mind and His ideas."

Seventh-Day Adventist Church

Please notice the change in our place of meeting this week. Since our church is under repairs we will meet in the Salvation Army building at 112 North 15th street, which building has so kindly been opened to us.

The Sabbath School will begin promptly at 10 o'cock Saturday morning. Classes for all divisions will be held as usual.

The morning service will begin at 11:15. The subject is: "The Way That God Has Led."

Due to the inclement weather conditions last Friday night the Bible study was postponed and will be held tonight at the home of Mrs. Clara Jefferson, 311 South 16th street.

NEW WAY TO COOK LIVER

—SEE HOW TENDER, JUICY!

says AUNT JENNY

Quick cooking in purer Spry saves flavor

SERVE liver often this easy, extra delicious Spry way. Pan-frying quickly with purer Spry seals in the rich, savory juices. And Spry's a joy to fry with—no unpleasant smell or smoke.

Pan-Fried Liver

1½ pounds liver (calf, lamb, or beef)
Salt
Pepper
⅓ cup flour
½ cup Spry

Slice liver ½ inch thick and cut into 6 or 8 pieces. Sprinkle liver with salt and pepper, then dip in flour. Heat ¼ cup Spry over medium heat until moderately hot. Fry liver 5 to 7 minutes, or until well browned on both sides, adding remaining ¼ cup Spry as needed during frying. Serves 4.

Enjoy Spry-fried foods often—they're so crisp, tempting, tasty, so different from the ordinary kind. And digestible—YES!

REMEMBER—FOODS FRIED THE SPRY WAY ARE AS DIGESTIBLE AS IF BAKED!

PILLSBURY'S DINNER-IN-A-ROLL

. . . wrapped in tenderest, flakiest biscuit, thanks to that dependable all-purpose flour, Pillsbury's Best!

MAKE YOUR MEAT GO FARTHER WITH PILLSBURY'S DINNER-IN-A-ROLL

. . . a savory way to satisfy six hungry people . . . for about 11c a serving.

TEMPERATURE: 400° F. TIME: about 1 hour and 10 min.

- 1½ cups (¾ lb.) ground beef
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ½ cup chopped celery, or carrots
- ⅓ cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted
- 1 egg, unbeaten
- ⅛ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
- 1 cup (1 medium) cooked, mashed, sweet potato (or Irish potato)

(The enrichment of Pillsbury's Best with two B-vitamins and iron in no way changes its creamy-white color, its mellow, wheaty flavor . . . or the perfect way it works for everything you bake)

1. Combine meat, salt, pepper, onion, celery or carrots, 2 tablespoons butter, and egg; mix well. Use as directed in Step 8 below.

2. Add ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter, green pepper to potatoes; mix well. Shape into roll as in Step 6 below.

The Perfect Pillsbury Biscuit

- 2 cups sifted PILLSBURY'S BEST Enriched Flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder (or 2 teaspoons double-acting)
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon poultry seasoning (optional)
- ⅓ cup shortening
- ¾ cup milk

When you see the tender flakiness of this Pillsbury biscuit, don't be so delighted that you forget something just as important—that you get this same glorious success with everything you bake with Pillsbury's Best! For Pillsbury's Best is a truly all-purpose flour—perfect for cakes, biscuits, cookies, pastry, or bread. And it's truly dependable, too. It's BAKE-PROVED to protect your baking—pre-tested by actual baking tests made 4 to 6 times a day during milling. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money back!

1. Sift flour once, measure; add baking powder, salt, and poultry seasoning (optional); sift again. 2. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse meal. 3. Add milk; mix until flour is dampened. 4. Knead gently on floured board a few seconds. 5. Roll out to 15x10-inch rectangle. 6. Shape potato mixture into roll, about 1 inch shorter than width of dough. 7. Place on dough; roll as for jelly roll, but only enough to enclose potatoes in dough. 8. Spread meat mixture evenly over remainder of dough; continue rolling. Seal edges. 9. Place roll in well-greased 9x4-inch loaf pan. Brush top with milk. Gash top. 10. Bake in hot oven. 11. Serve hot with a tomato sauce. Garnish with parsley and pimiento, if desired, or with cooked carrot or beet strips.

Get a bag of Pillsbury's Best—and try this savory, succulent one-dish dinner! It's fairly bursting with vitamins—with rare, rich goodness and flavor! Tonight's the night for Pillsbury's Dinner-In-A-Roll!

Think of it!—Solid silver for a portion of what you'd expect to pay! A bargain you wouldn't expect in times like these! Real sterling—not plate, but solid silver, of regular sterling weight and quality, in the simple, graceful, distinctive Betrothal* pattern (shown in picture above). It's only one of the fine premiums you can get with Pillsbury Thrift Stars, which come with Pillsbury's Best and other Pillsbury products. For details, see recipe folder in your Pillsbury's Best bag, or write Pillsbury Flour Mills, Dept. 43, Minneapolis, for new free catalog. *REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Road Commission Workers Sign Up For Payroll Plan

The 38 employes of the Delta county road commission have signed up 100 per cent for the payroll deduction plan for the purchase of War Bonds, J. T. Sharpensteen, county highway engineer, said yesterday.

Several weeks ago, 90 per cent of the workers had agreed to the plan, and the U. S. Treasury department awarded a Minute Man flag to the commission in recognition of the employes' display of patriotism. Yesterday, the signing up of the other 10 per cent of the workers was completed.

England has developed a single-seater fighter plane with two powerful engines, armed with four cannons set in its nose. It has been named the "Whirlwind" and is faster than the famous "Spitfire."

Gormely Funeral To Be Held Today

Verold F. Gormely, 53, of Detroit, active in state Democratic circles and a former member of the state liquor control commission, died at Newberry Wednesday at noon from a heart attack about an hour after attending funeral services for his sister, Miss Kathleen Gormely, veteran schoolteacher who died there on Sunday. Funeral services will be held in Newberry today.

Mr. Gormely was born in Port Lambton, Ontario, Canada, on May 16, 1889. He spent most of his life in the Upper Peninsula and his family home was at Newberry. He was a locomotive engineer for the Chicago and North Western railway and also the Soo Line from about 1906 to 1910. For 15 years, from 1918 to 1933, he was a justice of the peace of McMillan township. He was a life member of the Michigan State Farm Bureau and a member of its board of directors from 1923 to 1928. He was appointed one of the original seventeen members of the state liquor control commission in 1933 and served with the group until about 1939. He was a member of the National State Liquor Administrators and was chairman of its executive committee in 1935 and 1936. For the past few years he has been employed in Detroit as an executive with a trucking concern.

Surviving him is his wife, four sons, Patrick, Thomas, Michael and Louis, and three daughters, Margaret, Helen and Mary Ann, his mother, Mrs. Mary Gormely, of Newberry, three brothers, A. P. Gormely, Cleveland; Harvey, Detroit, and Frank, New York City; and one sister, Evelyn, in Detroit.

Rasmus Larsen Dies In Denmark, Wis.

Rasmus Larsen, of Denmark, Wis., a brother-in-law of Mrs. Margaret Stade of this city, died Wednesday night at his home, following a brief illness. He is survived by his wife, two daughters and two sons. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

NAZIS EMPLOY SEX AS WEAPON

Germany Planning Mass Production of Aryans

Mass production of "Aryans" is just another war production job to the Nazis. With Teutonic thoroughness they have established "breeding camps for the improvement of the Nordic race," and devised methods for arresting the fecundity of the "undesirable" races, like the Poles, the Czechs, and the Serbs. An expose of sex as a Nazi weapon is made by eorge W. Herald, a former French newspaper and army man, in the October issue of the Reader's Digest.

Mr. Herald quotes a "scientific" blessing given to this breeding policy in the German Medical Review of March 1941: "Every woman should be examined to determine whether she is worthy of having children. Those who are should be gathered in women's homes. A selection of masculine partners should be presented to them and each should choose one for a marriage limited in time—that is, until she becomes pregnant. The average woman should be able to produce about six children in this way, all of them top-notch Aryans."

In France, the article says, school girls are being pressed into service for this mass production of Aryans. The girls after undergoing rigid health examinations and having their racial backgrounds minutely checked are "put at the disposal" of young Nazi officers until they become pregnant. Then the German authorities assume responsibility for medical care and financial aid.

The Nazi policies in this direction, according to Mr. Herald, include a new sex education for "Nordic" young people, built around nudism and used as a short cut to a higher "Nordic" birth rate.

Rapid River

AAA Meet

Rapid River, Mich.—In spite of the inclement weather Friday evening a large crowd of farmers was in attendance at the Agriculture Conservation meeting for Masonville township held at the high school.

The following officers were elected: Delegate to the county convention, Hugo Brannstrom; alternate, Bob Vietzke; chairman, Hugo Brannstrom; vice chairman, Orville Lockhart; regular member, George Williamson; first alternate, Berthold Proehl; second alternate, Maria Lindberg.

Luther League Delegates

The following young people of Calvary Lutheran church were delegates to the Luther League convention held at Norway Sept. 19 and 20: Vera and Alice Holmgren, Ethel Stenlund, Mauryne Christiansen, Kenneth and Dean Lind.

Red Cross Sewing

Mrs. Wm. Miller, chairman of the local Red Cross unit announces that sewing is to be carried on in a big way commencing now. She urges all women to attend the designated days and also to take work home with them. It is expected that the Congregational Aid rooms will be used as a sewing center, as soon as available. At present, due to the remodeling and work on the interior of the Congregational church, the pews are all in the Aid rooms, but it is expected the church work will soon be finished and the sewing rooms available. Mrs. Miller is at present soliciting funds to equip the soldier kits that have been made. The cost of equipping a kit is about $2.00. Anyone wishing to donate toward this worthy act may give their money to Mrs. Miller or to Andrew Wils when a receipt will be given for it.

Briefs

The Royal Neighbors held a very enjoyable meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ed Lamberg in Whitefish. Games furnished the afternoons diversion. The hostess served a dainty lunch at the close of the afternoon. The next meeting will be held October 13 at the home of Mrs. Sandy Short.

Kurt Soderberg, who was manager of the meat department of the A&P store in Gladstone, left Monday evening for Minneapolis from where he expects to take a transport plane for Iceland where he will be employed in government work.

Sgt. Walter Fuhriman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fuhriman of Maplewood, has been transferred from Camp Shaw, Sumter, South Carolina to Santa Ana, California, where he is to enter cadet training. With this announcement came the announcement of his marriage to Miss Evelyn Smith of Sumter, South Carolina.

Martin Ebbeson, AAS, who was at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, has been transferred to Chanute Field, Illinois, where he is in the airplane mechanics, for ground work.

In the home of Archie Murchie, Sr., is a picture of his brother James Murchie in uniform, who was a member of the U. S. Marines in the Spanish-American war, also a picture of his son Archie jr., who was a member of the Marines in World War I. Now Archie has a grandson, Shirley McFarlan, son of the former Cinthia Murchie, who is in the U. S. Marines and is now in the Solomon Islands.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sorgenfrei of Bad Axe, who were visiting here, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nygren, enjoyed a motor trip through the Copper Country and northern Wisconsin last week. The Sorgenfreis left for their home Friday.

Miss Maud Hocks, while picking blackberries last week one day, had the misfortune to get her foot caught in some unaccountable manner breaking a bone in her leg above the ankle. She is around on crutches. Mrs. Sara Hocks, who was quite critical last week, is somewhat improved.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lind, Kenneth and Mary Lee Lind left Monday for Bartlett, Ill., where they will visit Mr. Lind's sister, Mrs. Mary Alkive and family, also visit Mrs. Lind's brother, Kenneth Lagerquist and family at Michigan City, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. John Minor and two sons, of Trenary, were guests Sunday of the Andrew Burnette family.

Mr. Harry Weaver of Shelby returned home after a weeks' visit with his three children at the Ed Fuhriman home in Maplewood.

Mr. and Mrs. John Laraby of Chicago arrived last Thursday for a two weeks' visit with Mr. Laraby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Laraby.

Mrs. Fritz Frank and daughter Connie of St. Cloud, Minn., arrived Saturday for a visit at the Napoleon Boudah home.

Mrs. Herbert Olson left Sunday for Bay City where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Enoch Peterson and son Friedolph, and at Detroit where she will visit her daughter Miriam.

Dorothy Birch, Thelma Sundberg and Joe Wolf of Ensign and Marion Kniskern of Rapid River, all members of last springs graduating class, left Sunday for Marquette, where they will enroll in Northern Michigan College of Education. James Short, who has one year there to his credit, left Tuesday to enroll again.

Due to the shortage of teachers several of our ex-teachers are now employed. Mrs. Jos. Casimir is teaching at Perkins and Mrs. Ed Fuhriman, a former teacher in the Rapid River school, is now teaching at Trenary. Mrs. Alice Sundling of Masonville is teaching in the Stonington schools.

Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Parker, former residents here, now of Traverse City, arrived Monday for a two weeks' vacation which they will spend at the M. M. Bonz cottage at Poplar lake.

Mrs. Eli Schram returned Friday from a three days visit at Detroit. Mrs. Amelia Buchler kept house for her during her absence.

Luke J. Labre Goes To Grayling

Luke J. Labre, former resident of this city, who has been with the Michigan State Highway Department at East Lansing, has taken a position with the United States Army Corps of Engineers and has been assigned to the Grayling Airport. He will assume his new duties on Saturday.

WPB Will "Defrost" Ice - Boxes; Two - Tone Shoes Are Out Of Tune

These hints and forecasts on home-front strategy are gathered in Washington and checked with authoritative sources before publication. However, they are subject to changes resulting from last-minute revisions of plans or operations by government agencies.

Unfrozen Refrigerators

Washington— If you're in the market for one of the 50,000 retailer - held refrigerators which are to be unfrozen by WPB, be sure there's not even an old ice box in your cellar before you set out to purchase one of these new refrigerators.

No one can own two refrigerators, mechanical or not.

There's another lot of 50,000 refrigerators held by manufacturers which can only be released with WPB's approval. Of these, only the super de - luxe models ranging from approximately $175 upward will be released to consumers. The others will be turned over to the Army for defense housing.

Uni-Colored Shoes

Watch for a WPB order prohibiting manufacture of multi-colored shoes—or even two-tone shoes. Garnish and out-of-the-ordinary costume shoes are out for the duration.

WPB feels that though leather shoes will be cut down to five colors the demand for unusual shades will be practically non-existent.

Meat Rationing

Don't expect meat rationing to make any real difference to your menus. The Department of Agriculture figures that between 1931 and 1940 approximately two and a half pounds of meat per person were consumed weekly. Rationing means cutting consumption to two and a quarter pounds per capita per week.

After 1941, however, when incomes started rising meat consumption also swelled slightly. There is now available approximately as much meat for civilian use as during the period from 1931-40.

Many more families are now able to buy meat since their incomes have risen. Consequently, the rationing program means only that more people will have to share the available supply.

Women in the Scrap

Army and Navy couldn't function if it weren't for the women who are helping in the salvage drive. There's a potential bayonet, steel helmet, or airplane part in every woman's kitchen. That vital material must be salvaged from every home during the next two months if the United States is going to win this war, says Washington officials.

It's the most important single effort today and salvage officials urge all women to get in touch shoes. Garish and out-of-the with their local or county salvage committee and offer their services. Not tomorrow or the next day — the war won't wait—but today.

Non-Working Women

Paul V. McNutt, Chief of the War Man Power Commission predicts that one out of every six women not employed will be recruited for war work before the end of 1943.

This does not include mothers who are not obliged to work and who have children under two years of age. With the appropriation of $400,000 for nurseries from the President's own emergency fund, officials feel that the need for day-nurseries in congested war production areas is at last being realized.

This amazing new way to play records means

No lid to lift—no ornaments to move!

No needles to worry about!

No more objectionable mechanical noises!

Real life to your music!

Records last indefinitely!

Records play, stop, change —automatically!

FEWER but FINER!

RCA Victor is cooperating to the full with national defense priority requirements. Because of these requirements, shortages exist in certain raw materials needed for radios and phonograph-radios and there will be a universal decrease in the number of instruments to be made. Hence, RCA Victor products for the home will be fewer. But they will be finer than ever. For, as a result of defense work, RCA Victor quality standards, always the highest, are now more exacting than ever.

VISIT US TODAY and see the remarkable features of this remarkable instrument! Watch the Roll-Out Record Changer in action. Notice the new tone realism provided by the Magic Tone Cell. See the Automatic Record Changer play, stop and change records —all by itself. You will be delighted. And remember—this instrument also gives you new Jewel-Lite Scanner, Flexible Tone Bridge, Teletube Radio and many other modern engineering triumphs. Yet its price is amazingly low!

HOME TROOPS FORMED HERE

Officers Will Be Chosen for Platoon At Later Date

About twenty men turned out Wednesday night for the organization of a local reserve platoon of Company 504, Michigan State Troops.

In charge of organization were Sylvester Schram and Ed Brunelle, commander of August Mattson Post, American Legion.

Platoon officers will be selected later. The unit is to be increased to 35 men as soon as possible.

A regular course of military training will be given the men. Drills were started at the initial meeting.

The course will prove of value to men about to enter the service as they will have the jump on others inducted and thus be more likely to obtain advancement earlier.

The unit will also work to suppress subversive activities. Complaints will be received by Commander Brunelle who in turn will advise the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

GOING TO ALASKA

Menominee — Keith Roberts, 232 Sheridan road, mining engineer, will leave Menominee next Monday for Seattle enroute to Alaska to join the staff of the Civil Aeronautics Administration as an engineer at Anchorage.

He returned to Menominee from Alaska last fall after closing gold mining properties he was working near Rampart for the duration of the war. He returned to Rampart briefly on a flying trip last June to turn over power equipment to the federal government, which has been developing military bases in Alaska.

Anchorage is on the south coast of Alaska and is served by the Alaska Railroad.

Mr. Roberts' family will remain in Menominee. He has spent six seasons in Alaska as a mining engineer.

Sparks caused by charges of static electricity constitute a fire and explosion hazard in a wide variety of industries, says the Department of Commerce.

Begin War Savings Campaign In Schools

A War Savings Campaign will be started in the Gladstone public schools today, it has been announced by Conan E. Fisher, chairman. Each Friday from now on will be known as War Savings Day when the students may purchase War Stamps and Bonds. Parents are urged to encourage their children in the purchase of stamps. This is not only a patriotic gesture but also instills in the children worthwhile habits of thrift.

It is interesting to note that during the second semester of last year a total of $7,155.40 in War Savings Stamps was purchased in the Gladstone public schools. Not only did the students purchase stamps but many of them bought more than five bonds during the second semester.

Pugsley Candidate For Court Justice

Muskegon, Mich., Sept. 23 (AP)— Judge E. C. Pugsley of Hart, presiding judge of the 27th judicial district, will go before the Republican state convention in Detroit Friday as a candidate for the nomination for justice of the supreme court.

Judge Pugsley, serving his third term in the district, recently concluded two years' service as trial judge in the Wayne county graft cases at Detroit.

In his bid for the high court nomination he will have the backing of the Republican Wayne County Precinct Organization, it was announced in Detroit by Louis J. Colombo, Jr., acting president of the organization which, formed as an "anti-boss" group, Monday won control of the big Wayne county delegation to the state convention.

METAL DRIVE IS PUBLICIZED

Collection of Scrap To Be Started Here Monday

Material publicizing the scrap metal salvage drive to be conducted here next week will be distributed about the city this morning at 10 o'clock by high school students.

The entire city will be completely canvassed.

In addition the air raid wardens of the city will visit each home in their respective areas to acquaint residents with the purpose of the drive.

To further stress the importance of the campaign a large advertisement sponsored by local industries will appear in Sunday's edition of the Daily Press.

Gladstone residents are expected to contribute 250 tons in the present drive.

Trucks will make the collection all next week covering District One on Monday and Tuesday, District Two on Wednesday and Thursday, and District Three on Friday and Saturday.

AVOID FREEZING PIPES

If you have had the unfortunate experience with frozen pipes that lead to an outside faucet, that condition can be remedied by installing on the water supply inside the house, a shut-off valve by which you may turn off the water supply at the first signs of freezing weather.

The installation of shut-off valves is an economy and overcomes the inconvenience of shutting down the entire system till one part has been repaired.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—The inflation theme continued to act as a buyng argument for stocks in today's market and leading rails and industrials extended the rally of the preceding two sessions by fractions to more than a point on the largest volume of 1942.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .3 of a point at 37.7, biggest since September 5. Transfers of 851,110 shares compared with 700,900 Wednesday and were the largest since December 31.

Santa Fe and Atlantic Coast Line hit 5-year peaks. Others at top levels for the year or longer included Southern Pacific, Erie, Southern Railway preferred, Western Union, Twentieth Century-Fox, American Radiator, Goodyear, Goodrich and U. S. Rubber.

It was the broadest market since February 10, 818 individual issues being traded. Of these 524 were up, 120 down and 174 unchanged.

Well in front were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Kennecott, American Smelting, Texas Co., Du Pont, Westinghouse and Douglas Aircraft.

Corn Products was an exception, dropping 1¼ points at 49¾ in the wake of a dividend cut from 75 to 65 cents blamed mainly on taxes and the desire of directors to maintain a sound cash position.

American Telephone was up only 1-8 while minor declines were recorded for International Telephone, International Harvester, Standard Oil (N. J.), Boeing and Sperry.

Carriers maintained popularity in a selective bond section. Commodities turned a bit shaky. At Chicago wheat was off 1-8 to 3-8 of a cent a bushel, corn unchanged to up 3-8 and hogs 10 cents lower. Cotton dipped at the last and finished off 40 to 75 cents a bale.

Pittsburgh Glass jumped 5¼ points. Lesser gainers included American Cyanamid "B", American Gas, Electric Bond & Share, Gulf Oil, Phoenix Securities, Pantepec and Pennsylvania-Central Airlines. The aggregate here was 118,445 shares versus 84,975 the day before.

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—The bond market gathered strong momentum in its push to higher levels today with trading the most active in a year and a half.

The day's total turnover of $19,070,700, par value, was tops for any 5-hour session since April 3, 1941, when it was $19,531,000. Wednesday's volume was $16,927,800. The Associated Press average of 20 rails rose .5 of a point to 65, only six-tenths away from the year's high, established early in the year when rail bonds rode the crest of a popular wave of buying for several weeks. Nearly 40 separate issues changed hands in excess of $100,000.

Some of the more active loans were St. Paul 5s at 18, Baltimore & Ohio stamped convertibles of '60 at 24½, Rock Island 4½s at 18 5-8, Illinois Central 4¾s at 45 1-8, International Telephone 4½s at 59 1-8, Missouri Pacific 5s at 7 5-8, New York Central 4½s at 48¼, New Haven 4½s at 44, Northern Pacific 6s at 66, St. Louis-San Francisco 4½s at 23 and Seaboard Air Line 6s at 13.

Showing the effects of profit selling were, among others, Southern Railway 6½s, Texas & Pacific 5s, Pennsylvania 3¼s and Chicago & North Western general mortgage 5s.

U. S. governments stayed in the background with only small changes on the stock exchange and over the counter.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Sept. 24 (AP)—Late selling wiped out price advances of grain futures today and substituted losses in some cases as the market reflected anti-inflation developments in Washington.

Wheat and rye were up about a cent early in the day, the formre reaching highest quotations posted here in three to four months. Later, profit taking developed. Rye tumbled almost 3 cents from the early highs and wheat fell more than a cent.

Wheat closed 1-8 to 3-8 cent lower than yesterday, December $1.28¼ to $1.28 3-8, May $1.31 3-8; corn unchanged to 3-8 higher, December 86 3-8 to 86½, May 90 5-8 to 90 3-4; oats 3-8 to 5-8 lower; soybeans ½ higher; and rye 1 5-8 to 2 cents lower.

ON THE RECORD

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Political Principles For a War of Coalition

I think it may be presumed that the British follow the American Press and that from week to week responsible persons in England carefully read clippings recording "American public opinion" as thus expressed.

Dorothy Thompson

Now, what can they conclude from what they read?

They can conclude that large portions of America consider that the British Empire is finished, and that these same people are unsympathetic to any reorganization of the British world that leaves Britain a world power.

A vociferous group is loudly and continually demanding American intervention in India. Another group is virulently attacking the British policy in Palestine. From time to time there are hints of the growing American influence in Australia and Canada.

Both on the right and on the left two groups are growingly articulate. Those who apparently see in the war an opportunity for a new, expansive American imperialism—at the cost of the British—and those who—usually with the most primitive knowledge of the factors concerned—are bent on aiding and abetting rebellious movements throughout the British world.

* * *

Now, the presumption in all this is, apparently, that Britain needs us but we don't need Britain. When Theodore Dreiser says in Canada that Britain hasn't done anything but borrow our money, our tanks, and our planes, he does not mention the fact that the British war industry at this moment and for months past has been much more efficient than ours, and that the British losses — I mean losses from the British Isles — are much greater to date than those of any other country except Russia.

And between those whose anti-Russian feelings are trying to hamper any real alliance with Russia, and those whose anti-British feelings are impelling them to throw monkey - wrenches all over the place, we are in a fine way to losing the war.

* * *

Now the presumption that Britain has no alternative course than to fight together with us is utterly false. Every great power has alternatives. And Britain, in particular, has always had an alternative. There is, for instance, the alternative of appeasement.

Every great country in a war has to have a positive war aim. Britain's positive war aim is the maintenance of a British Commonwealth that can and must be remodelled; it is to maintain British influence in Asia. The latter is also our war aim. If it is not, why are we fighting Japan?

But if Britain's war aims are made impossible of realization by her major ally, what argument is there against appeasement?

* * *

The United States is the greatest potential single power in this war. But it is, at the same time, the one furthest behind in its war preparations. Nevertheless, some of us are already beginning to tell the whole world what to do.

And we are advancing ideas outside of the framework of any positive or clear picture of what kind of world we wish to see.

Of course we want to destroy the aggressive power of Germany, Japan, and Italy. At the same time we wish to restrict the power of Russia and-or Britain. Now just where do we end up by this kind of goings on? Do we wish to take on the Axis alone—and do we wish to run the earth alone afterward?

It is not enough to be for the "freedom of India." Freedom of India for what? India, like every other country, is not a unit on another planet but a member of a world society. This world society both for war and peace has to be recognized inside a certain framework. India can be absolutely free, according to the Atlantic charter, in the framework of a British Commonwealth. There may be a better proposal for India, but so far no better one has been made. Any concept of world order cannot conceive of India as another Ireland.

And if we are bent on securing freedom for this nation or that outside any concept of a new world order, mutually organized, we shall find ourselves acting as the world's leading anarchists. And this is one role that history will not forgive any country.

There are Indian groups in this country making propaganda and working up American public opinion against our great ally. For whom? For another ally? No. For a party in India that, up to now, and to put it optimistically, is neutral. Pessimistically spoken, a party that is giving aid and comfort to the Japanese enemy, and whose leader, Mr. Gandhi, has said that he is counting on a Japanese victory.

The whole propaganda is exploited and used by the Germans and Japanese, while American compatriots who have more good will in their hearts than sense in their brains, loudly assist them, quite disregarding the fact that they are splitting up our war of coalition.

The latest argument advanced is that we must intervene in India because we need the Indians against the Japanese. Well, it's high time somebody pointed out that we need the British— the British fleet, the British air force, the British bases, and the British army a great deal more than we need the "millions of India."

* * *

Almost all of the backers of Indian freedom are for a second front to be made by the British. I am also for a second front. But I do not ask the impossible. I do not ask that the British make a second front in order to help us destroy the British world.

This kind of politics is stupid and ruinous.

DAY'S MARKETS IN BRIEF

DON'T JUNK OLD SWEATERS

Here's a way to save money for that War Bond and at the same time keep warm in the cold months to come. Instead of just "junking" those old sweaters that no longer fit or have become thick through constant washing, try making mittens or skating caps from them. For mittens, simply trace the outline of your hands on paper, then cut the sweater according to your pattern, leaving plenty of room for comfort. With contrasting wool or fluffy angora overcast the edges in a close blanket stitch. Woolly caps can be made in any number of styles and finished off the same way to make a cute skating set. Then, too, there's the thrill of having made it yourself.

Disposable income of individuals in the United States rose to an annual rate of $103 billions by the end of this year's second quarter, according to the Department of Commerce.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

WIDENING RIFT

CHAPTER XIII

As the end of the term neared and things crowded up they managed, Candace and Martin, fewer and fewer times together. There were not many broken engagements, Martin seemed able, usually, to plan ahead.

"This coming week looks pretty foul," he would say, "I don't think I'll be able to see you." But even so, an occasional last-minute disappointment couldn't be avoided, apparently.

Candace was determined not to mind. She would warn herself lightfully, "This is only the beginning, gal, only the beginning. It's a sad life, being a doctor's wife."

Martin seemed to stand up under it less well. He had periods of fierce dejection, he was moody and morose. He showed the bad state of his nerves in various small ways. Candace thought of his reaction to the teasing about the hospital appointments, for one thing. Though his marks had always been good, Peter had been an honor man all through school and his were much better. Any priority in the appointments might have been expected to fall to him; yet it had not, Martin's had come through a full two weeks before Peter's had.

Peter had said good-naturedly, "That must have been right powerful medicine you gave the Hartshorne pooch, Corby." Martin said shortly, "I'm getting pretty tired of that gag." He looked ugly and Candace had felt a twinge of shame for him.

Peter, too, was studying hard, yet it did not appear to tell on him. Candace wondered a little about that. It was, she supposed, due to the difference in temperament in the two. Certainly Martin was mentally as keen, she thought loyally, but he was apt to neglect things and then try to correct them in sudden periods of application. Peter, on the other hand, was conscientiously regular in his studies and so did not suffer the feeling of guilt that was, she guessed, one of the causes of Martin's outbursts.

She caught her thoughts up short, suffering a sense of guilt. Because the worst strain under which Martin labored, she was sure, was this business of herself. Everybody warned that long engagements were a strain. She herself knew it now. But you couldn't do anything about falling in love.

Their worst trouble, she felt, was in being separated so that it was a problem even to see each other. If they could work in the same hospital at least! Certainly occasional glimpses, snatched moments, would be better than nothing at all.

Though she had said nothing of it to Martin, she had been trying, ever since the boys' appointments were made definite, to obtain a transfer to Good Samaritan. Good Samaritan was a fashionable hospital catering to wealthy patients, and there was a little more to getting in there, it appeared, than simply being a good nurse.

The transfer of a nurse in training was a rare thing, but Candace was learning for the first time the advantages of having had the right schools, of knowing the right people, and she was making shameless use of them all to be near Martin.

In May, when she had almost given up hope, the transfer came through, to be effective almost immediately.

She came away from her interview with Miss Maher—the Duchess, as the girls always referred to the head—feeling almost giddy with happiness. She had to make a deliberate effort to keep from running and shouting aloud; her pace along the corridor of the nurses' home was almost a run anyway. She dashed into her room and slammed the door behind her and leaned against it, panting.

Evelyn Gates was there, sitting on her bed and putting buttons in a fresh uniform. She looked up curiously. "What's up?"

Candace was glad of Gates. She had felt she must burst if she didn't tell someone. Without Gates to spill it out to she was afraid that the temptation to phone Martin and tell him immediately might prove too much for her, and she didn't want to do that, she wanted to save that news for his birthday anniversary, due the next week. It was sheer good luck that the transfer had come just now. That would be her best present to him. Her marvelous present.

"Gates, it's come through," she said breathlessly. "The transfer, I mean."

Gates looked up unsmiling. "I'm glad. I know how much you wanted it." She didn't know why, though.

"How much I wanted it?" Candace repeated happily. "Oh, Gates, you couldn't know."

Gates laid the uniform aside and stretched backward across the bed, leaning on her elbows so that her head jutted at an odd angle between her shoulders. "I'll bet the Duchess didn't think much of the idea."

Candace giggled. "She certainly didn't. She seemed to think it was kind of dumb to risk having to repeat maybe six months of training. She seemed to think it was a sign of emotional instability."

"Well, isn't it kind of dumb?" Gates questioned. She added surprisingly, "She almost hit it on the head with that emotion business, Candace."

Gates rose from the bed like a spring uncoiling. Elaborately casual, she hitched her bathrobe more securely around her and walked over to her dresser and busied herself with brushing her hair. That way, her own face was hidden but she could steal glances at Candace's in the mirror.

"I hope you won't be sore. I've been prying, but I can't help seeing letters that you have on top your dresser waiting to be mailed. I've seen those that you have addressed to that doctor all the time. It's my guess this transfer you want so badly is connected with him."

The title "doctor" on the letters addressed to Martin had started as a joke; but surely with such a short time to go he had a right to it. Candace had felt proudly, and had continued the practice. She said quietly to Gates, "Yes?"

* * *

Gates thought bitterly, I've done it now, I've certainly stuck my neck out. . . . She said, trying to hide her dismay under an air of insolence, "Hasn't anybody ever told you that doctors don't marry nurses? Oh, it happens once in a while, sure. Doctors are exposed to nurses and every once in a while a weak one succumbs. It's sort of an industrial disease. But the incidence, as they say of diseases, is not very high—"

She had no way of knowing who Martin was, she had taken it for granted that he was someone that Candace had met since going into training. She had honestly felt that no good could come of it.

She plunged on desperately, "At least don't ever chase a man. Any man. If any transferring has to be done, let him do it. That way he won't get tired as quick, and even if he does you at least still have your pride—"

Candace thought, shocked, so that's how it appears to an outsider. . . . Suppose such an idea should ever occur to Martin?

Her stony expression frightened Gates. She said flippantly, "Well, come on, chop me down. I rate it. But I mean well, honest I do. My intentions are good."

Candace relaxed. Of course such an idea would never occur to Martin. . . . She was ashamed of even the momentary doubt. Gates would never understand about herself and Martin, nor did Candace care to explain. She had a feeling of distaste that Gates had ever dared touch the subject at all. She said gently, "It isn't the way you think it is, Gates. It's all right, really."

There was a tap at the door and a girl poked her head in. "Phone call for Bech," she said.

Mladenich - Luoma

Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Mladenich of Limestone announce the wedding of their daughter, Anna Marie, to Eino J. Luoma, of Eben Junction.

The ceremoney took place on Tuesday morning, September 15, at 10 o'clock in the rectory of St. Peter's Cathedral, Marquette, Rev. F. Franczek officiating. Attendants were Miss Mary Mladenich, sister of the bride, Miss Sadie Luoma, sister of the bridegroom, Dan Malnar, who was best man, and Tony Mladenich, brother of the bride, and Louis Laurich.

The bride wore a gown of white satin and a full length veil which was gathered to a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a bridal bouquet of lilies, tea roses and gladioli. Miss Mladenich wore a full length gown of pink satin and Miss Luoma wore blue satin, and they carried bouquets of like flowers.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Northland, mixed flowers centering the table appointments. A wedding party was held in the evening at the home of the bridegroom's parents at which the couple was presented with many beautiful gifts, and a wedding dance at Trenary followed the party.

The couple will live at New Carlisle, O., near Wright Field, where Mr. Luoma is employed at the Aircraft Radio Laboratory.

NOT POLIO CASE

Sault Ste. Marie—Returning from Marquette Tuesday, Dr. David Littlejohn, county health director, brought the information that George Edward Dougherty, six-year-old boy whose ailment had been diagnosed here as suspected infantile paralysis, was instead the victim of anemia and an acute cold, and definitely had no poliomyelitis infection.

The boy's condition, however, was declared to be such that hospitalization for a couple of weeks was necessary, and he is still being held at St. Luke's hospital.

The quarantine sign at 216 Ferris street, which was put up Saturday after the local physician diagnosed the case as suspected infantile paralysis, was taken down yesterday and, except for the renovations that are being done to comply with health and fire regulations, life is continuing at normal. One family has moved out and back to Bay City from which it came, however.

The crocodile is distinguished from the alligator by having two teeth protruding when the jaws are closed.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The "Stovepipe," as the 60-millimeter trench mortar is commonly known, is used by our infantry for close-in fighting. It fires a 2.4-pound shell at the rate of about 35 a minute.

The mortar fires its projectile in a U-shaped arc and for this reason may be successfully camouflaged behind an obstruction. It costs about $500. You and your neighbors, joining together, can buy many of these effective weapons for use of our army. Investing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday will do the job. Get on the firing line on the home front . . . join the "Ten Percent Club."

FARM SALVAGE TOTAL GOOD

Special Scrap Drive In Rural Areas Ends Today

Ten donated state, county, city and private trucks canvassing Schoolcraft county for farm scrap yesterday and today were bringing in good quantities of scrap, Frank Peake, chairman of the county salvage for victory committee, said last night. A route of 55 places to be called upon was set up here this week by William A. Norton, state highway department employee, so that the trucks could cover the county as quickly as possible. Reports from the various war clubs in the county still are being received and at least 14 tons of scrap iron, plus 515 pounds of rubber, is available from farms which have reported the amount of scrap which they have.

An old stationary boiler used in a sawmill north of here about 25 miles on the Indian River was salvaged Wednesday night. It was skidded across the river with a tractor and then loaded on a truck for transportation here. A traction engine and edger at Hancock's mill on the westside near the paper mill is also expected to swell the total of scrap collections in the county by 12 tons in the near future. Mr. Peake also reported that a number of old railroad cars wrecked off of an old abandoned railroad grade between Manistique and Thompson had also been discovered and would be salvaged in the near future.

T-B Association X-Ray Unit To Come Wednesday

The Michigan Tuberculosis association x-ray unit will visit Manistique next Wednesday, September 30. Anyone interested in having x-rays of their lungs taken to determine whether they have the disease or not or who has had the disease and desires to check for the presence of it is urged to contact the Alger-Schoolcraft health department office here to make arrangements for an x-ray, Dr. E. J. Brenner, director of the health unit, said. The unit will be located in the high school here and will probably be available only during the morning.

Aims, Platforms Of PTA Outlined By Mrs. Van Eyck

Aims for the year and the platform of the Parent-Teachers association in 1942 were announced today by the president of the Lakeside-Central PTA., Mrs. Kenneth Van Eyck. Nine goals are set up in the platform of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers with the idea that every child should have the opportunity to live a full life, satisfying to himself and useful to the community. The goals are: a good home, sound health, safety from physical hazard, equalized education opportunity, conservation of human values and natural resources, vocational adjustment, constructive leisure time activities, civic responsibility and an active spiritual faith.

The local unit's aims are to fulfill as far as possible the goals of the national platform by cooperating with all agencies of the community to produce the best environment for the children, to do all that it can to aid war work in Manistique, to provide a channel for dissimination of essential information and to give all members opportunity to learn new facts and skills that will aid in the task of preparing the city's children for the future.

One of the things most desired by the association is 100 percent membership of all adults in the community. "Upon our children is based the future of our nation," Mrs. Van Eyck said, "and PTA feels that every patriotic citizen has a direct responsibility, whether he is a parent or not." A membership drive will be started next month but anyone interested in joining the organization at any time is invited to do so. The membership fee is very low so that financial considerations will not force people to forego membership in the group.

The executive board of the PTA will act as hostesses at a tea at the Legion cottage next Tuesday. Parents are invited to come between the hours of three and five o'clock to meet the teachers. Memberships can be obtained at that time by those who desire them.

The program for the coming year, starting with the October meeting, will be announced soon by Mrs. G. Leslie Bouschor, program chairman.

THREE MEN TO BE FETED

Retired Businessmen Will Be Honored Tuesday Night

Three retired Manistique businessmen, John Falk, Ben Gero, Sr., and William L. Middlebrook, will be the guests of honor at a testimonial dinner being held under chamber of commerce sponsorship Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Legion cottage. Attendance at the event is expected to number about 100 persons.

James C. Wood, Manistique attorney, will be the toastmaster at the dinner and Judge W. G. Stephens will be the principal speaker. There will be group singing and the three honored guests will also be called upon for addresses.

The dinner planned here for Tuesday evening was arranged under the direction of the chamber of commerce with the idea of showing the city's appreciation for the fine work in business and civic activities in which the three men have had a part during the time they have lived in Manistique and Schoolcraft county.

Frank Gierke is general chairman of the committee in charge of the arrangements for the event. A. F. Hall, James C. Wood and W. F. Kefauver are in charge of the program and William J. Shinar, Agner Dehlin, W. W. Davidson, Mauritz Carlson and Charles D. Manson have been handling other arrangements for the evening. The Legion Auxiliary will serve the dinner.

Braults', City Bowling Groups To Meet Tonight

A meeting of the Manistique City Bowling association and the Brault men's league will be held tonight at 7:45 at the Brault alleys, Russell Brault, secretary of the City association, announced yesterday. The members will discuss important city association matters and all bowlers are urged to be present.

The Brault men's league will hold their session following the City association gathering. All men who wish to bowl in the league themselves or have teams to enter are asked to be present at the meeting or notify Russell Brault.

Workers Needed At Sault Ste. Marie: Thoren

An urgent called for laborers, carpenters and miners for war work at Sault Ste. Marie has been received by the U. S. Employment Service office here, Clarence Thoren, manager, said yesterday. Any person interested in the work is asked to contact Mr. Thoren before going to the Soo. Laborers will be paid 70 cents an hour, Mr. Thoren said, and miners and carpenters, $1.25 an hour.

Card Party

A card party, sponsored by the members of the Ida Chapter No. 54, O.E.S., was held Wednesday evening in the Masonic hall. Proceeds from the party will be used for defense bonds.

Twelve tables of cards were in play during the evening and prizes for high score, which were defense stamps, were awarded to Mrs. Arthur Cockram and Carl Carlson.

Refreshments were served from tables decorated with red, white and blue tapers and flags.

Dansing provided the remainder of the evening's entertainment. Music was furnished by Mrs. Arthur Adams, who played the piano and Dr. G. A. Shaw, the accordian.

The party arrangements were made by Mrs. Charles Hancock, Mrs. L. E. McDonald and Mrs. Nellie Raredon.

New Directors Named To Board Of Local Chamber

Frank Gierke, Manistique postmaster, and Dr. G. A. Shaw, physician and surgeon here, have been elected to membership of the board of directors of the Manistique Chamber of Commerce, Charles D. Manson, secretary of the chamber, revealed yesterday upon receiving acceptances from the two men. Mr. Gierke and Dr. Shaw will fill positions left vacant by the resignation of P. H. Beauvais, now in Manistee, and Dr. James Fyvie, who will leave today for army service.

The two new directors will fill the unexpired part of the terms of one year to which Mr. Beauvais and Dr. Fyvie were elected early this year.

LIONS' LADIES NIGHT OCT. 6

Plan Now Being Made for Club's Annual Event

Manistique Lions will hold their annual Ladies Night event in the Legion cottage here October 6. Members of the organization are now laying plans for the affair at which "Pete" Gorsche's orchestra will furnish the music for dancing.

The event will be informal and will open with a dinner. Dancing will follow.

William L. Norton is general chairman of arrangements for the party. I. Haroide Brown and Carlton Siddall are in charge of refreshments and George Graphos is in charge of the dinner. Arrangements for the evening program will be placed in the hands of the ladies.

Members of the club will be permitted to bring guests to the affair. They are asked to notify Mr. Norton or Everett Cookson by Saturday, October 3, how many will be in their party.

Classes In Home Nursing Will Start Next Week

Home nursing classes conducted under the Red Cross will get underway here at 1:45 o'clock next Monday afternoon, Mrs. A. J. Cayia, chairman of the home nursing committee of the Red Cross, announced yesterday. The meeting will be held in the Lakeside gymnasium for two hours twice each week, on Mondays and Thursdays for about six weeks.

All women interested in the classes are urged to be present at the opening meeting. Those who attend should bring paper, notebook and a pencil with them, Mrs. Cayia said. Mrs. William Cook, Red Cross nurse, will be in charge of the classes.

Members of the home nursing committee arranging the meetings are Miss Harriet Hurd and Mrs. Ed Jackson in addition to Mrs. Cayia.

Dodgers And Cards Both Win Again In National League Race

BOSTON LOSES 5-3 DECISION

Brooklyn Rings Up 101st Victory; Needs to Win 3 More

BY GAYLE TALBOT

Brooklyn, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Dodgers staved off elimination from the National League race for at least one more day when they came from behind today to belt out a 5 to 3 victory over Boston's Jim Tobin before 19,062 still hopeful fans at Ebbets Field.

This left the Dodgers a chance of tying for the flag providing they win their remaining three games and the Cards collapsed completely in their last two.

In chalking up their fifth straight victory since they got off the toboggan, the Flatbushers ran their record of wins for the season to 101, surpassing the best mark of all previous Brooklyn clubs. They had that for consolation, no matter what happens to them later on.

As has become their habit, the Dodgers let the opposition get a running start today and then plastered the fences with a cluster of base hits to present Whitlow Wyatt with his 19th triumph of the year. And again it was Captain Dolf Camilli who supplied the big punch. He doubled in the tying runs in the Dodgers' sixth-inning outburst and scored the winner, himself, on a wild throw to the plate by Sibi Sisti, Braves second baseman.

A Shaky Inning

Boston scored all three of its runs off Wyatt in the third by bunching four safe wallops with three Brooklyn errors.

Once Wyatt got out of that mess he went along smoothly enough until the seventh. When he issued a pass to Holmes to open that frame, Manager Leo Durocher lost no time waving Hugh Casey in from the bull pen. Casey attended to the matter with hitless ball the rest of the way.

Tobin, using mostly soft stuff, held the Dodgers to a pair of hits through the infield for the first five innings, and his 3-0 lead looked big as a house. Wyatt flew out meekly enough to open the sixth too, but then it came—bang, bang.

Dixie Walker singled. Arky Vaughan singled. Pete Reiser singled, Dolf Camilli doubled and Augie Galan doubled. Sisti committed his colossal error, throwing the ball a dozen feet over Lombardi's head at home plate after he had taken the bounce-back of Camilli's drive against the right field wall. When it was over and the dust had subsided, the Dodgers had four runs and were safely in. Galan's double was wasted, as Mickey Owen ended the inning by hitting into a double play.

Brooklyn's fifth run in the eighth inning was an after thought, with Vaughan and Reiser on third and second, respectively, as the result of two singles and a double steal. Galan swung mightily at a third strike for what should have been the third out. But the ball went through Lombardi, and Vaughan sprinted over before Ernie could recover and peg Reiser out at the dish.

The Dodgers were to face the Braves again tomorrow in their final home game before going to Philadelphia to finish up in a pair against the Phils.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Our crystal ball was off the beam last week and that rash of tie scores left us embarrassed. We'll take another whirl at the football forecasts for this week's games. Some of the season's outstanding matches are scheduled for this weekend and football fans from end of the peninsula to the other will get an opporunity to witness major battles. The weekend schedule includes the renewal of numerous keen rivalries, including the Bessemer-Ironwood classic and the Menominee-Soo annual meeting.

Escanaba at Norway — The Eskymos will have their hands full in this one, but they should come through victoriously.

St. Joseph at Crystal Falls—Postponing the Peshtigo game didn't do the Trojans any good, and we doubt that they can cop this one.

Manistique at Gladstone — Upon the basis of last week's scores, the Emeralds have the edge on the Braves.

Iron Mountain at Stambaugh —This one is complicated by the loss of three Iron Mountain regulars, and we lack knowledge of the Muntaineers reserve strength. We'll take a chance on them, anyway.

Menominee at Soo—The Maroons' remarkable battle against West Green Bay earns them the favored spot in this match.

Calumet at Hancock—Of all the Copper Country teams, Calumet is the only one that moves out of its immediate zone for intersectional battles, so to speak. This one looks like a cinch for Calumet.

Munising at Negaunee—The Mathers seem to have something this year. We're betting on them today.

Niagara at Stephenson—The two teams met last week at Niagara and Niagara won, 14-0. It would be folly to predict anything different today, despite Coach Brunelle's optimism.

Marquette at Ishpeming—In our book, the Hematites hold the better cards.

When the Green Bay Packers discounted all those stories coming out of Chicago about the inability of Sid Luckman to lead the Chicago Bears in the annual classic at Green Bay Sunday, they apparently had the inside dope. Now comes word from the Bears camp that Luckman will be in there pitching 'em Sunday against the Packers. Incidentally, the Bears appear to have the Indian sign on the Packers at Green Bay. They have won seven straight games at Green Bay, although the Packers frequently whip the Bears at Wrigley Field.

The best sports crack of the week comes from Ike Pearson, 25 year old Philadelphia Phils hurler, who has enlisted in the U. S. Marines. He expects to be called to active duty in December or January. He will be inducted into the officer candidate school at Quantico, Va. After being sworn in by Col. W. Dulty Smith, Pearson grinned and said, "I'm glad to land with a first place club at last."

INDIANS DROP PAIR TO SOX

Fourth Place Lead Cut to Half Game By Twin Setback

Cleveland, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Indians' fourth-place lead over Detroit was slashed to half a game today by the White Sox, who grabbed a twin bill, 3 to 1 and 4 to 2.

Ted Lyons rung up his 14th victory, against six defeats, in the opener with the help of Wally Moses' bat, Moses' long fly sent home Don Kolloway, who had tripled, in the third. Following Myril Hoag's homer in the sixth, Moses singled to drive in the third run. Al Smith, knocked off the mound in the sixth, was the loser.

PHILLIES SPLIT WITH NEW YORK

Giants Win Opener, 8-0, But Lose Nightcap, 3 to 2

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)— The lowly Phils divided a doublheader with the New York Giants today by winning the second game, a battle of rookie pitchers, 3 to 2, after Bill Dohrman had shut them out 8 to 0 on four hits in the opener.

The Giants scored five runs on six hits in the first inning of the first game, driving Tommy Hughes to cover, and they continued with occasional jabs at Andy Lapihuska.

SOFTBALL LOOP PICKS OFFICERS

Earl Raiche Appointed President for Ensuing Year

Earl Raiche was elected president of the Escanaba Softball association for the ensuing year at the annual banquet held last night at the Sherman Hotel. Raiche will succeed Fred LaChapelle as head of the organization.

Other officers elected are Bill Doucette, vice president; Gerald Kenneally, secretary; Bevier Butts, treasurer. Members elected to the board of control are Fred Mattson, chairman; Cliff Beaudin and Fred LaChapelle.

The association voted to purchase three $100 war bonds from the club's treasury and also donated $10 to the local USO.

A crowd of about 85 persons attended the annual banquet. Speeches were given by representatives of the various teams, by Ken Gunderman, Daily Press sports editor, and Bevier Butts, city recreational leader. Earl Raiche was toastmaster and Willard Rockburg was chairman of the meeting.

First Series Tilt Taken By Syracuse

Columbus, O., Sept. 24. (AP)—Syracuse of the International league defeated Columbus of the American association, 6 to 1, in the first game of the 25th junior world series tonight behind the superb five-hit pitching of right hander Clayton Patrick Lambert. A crowd of 3,494 witnessed the contest.

COLORFUL GRID CLASSIC SUNDAY

Bears and Packers Will Renew Rivalry At Green Bay

Green Bay, Wis. — Sunday's clash at City Stadium here between the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers will be the 47th renewal of a meeting that has come to be regarded as one of the classics of football. Since 'way back in 1921, the two colorful teams have been playing against each other, and the same two coaches—George Halas and E. L. (Curly) Lambeau — have been attempting to outwit each other with varying degrees of success.

Over the long history of the series, the totals are remarkably even, with the Bruins holding the edge. The Chicagoans have won 23 encounters, the Packers 19, and only four have ended in ties.

Game Is Spectacular

A lot of spectacular football has been played in the various meetings, and particularly in recent years and the results have shown fairly high score totals by both teams, which added to the thrills for the crowds. The single recent exception was the bitter struggle in the City Stadium mud that ended in a 2 to 0 victory for the Bears, in 1938.

The Bears have scored 508 points in the 47 games, to the Packers' 436, but the Windy City representatives have been shut out 10 times to the Packers' eight. Of the four ties, the most recent was in 1932, when the opposing squads played to a scoreless tie, and the next one going back was in 1926, when a tilt ended three-all.

Divided Last Year

One of the most outstanding thrills for Packer fans came last year, when the Bays, after losing 25 to 17 in Green Bay as the Bruins swept away what seemed like their only hurdle to another championship, went to Chicago to outfight the Halasmen, 16 to 14, and throw the league race back into a tie, which remained undecided until a play-off decision went to the Chicagoans.

The Lambeaus find themselves in a similar spot this year, with five pre-season games marking the Bears as the team to beat in the league flag race. They would like to turn the trick at City Stadium again Sunday, with a good-sized crowd of followers on hand for the 2 o'clock kickoff, hoping they can do it.

ESKYMOS MAY BE OVERRATED

Vikings See Good Chance for Victory In Annual Clash

Norway, Sept. 24—A few of the unknown facts about the Escanaba high school football team—principally, if it is as strong as its 31-6 win over Soo may forecast—are expected to come to the surface in one of the range's topnotch attractions here Saturday, when the Eskymos play the Norway Vikings.

In 1939, Escanaba survived the season undefeated to claim the U. P. title. It repeated in 1940 and continued with an undefeated record last year to share the championship with Bessemer. Five lettermen returned from last year's team, onl yone of them is regular. Losses included such stars as Shoman, Gauthier and Grabowski. Yet, the rebuilt Eskymos rolled over the Soo in the season's first game by a larger margin than that of any of the previous championship teams.

What does it mean? Is Escanaba off to another great season? Or is the Soo below average strength? It is likely those questions will be properly answered on the Viking gridiron Saturday.

Eskymos Overrated?

Escanaba even in its greatest moments has always found a severe test in the Norway team and, if you check back, the last time Escanaba was defeated by a Michigan team was on the Norway field in 1938. Coach Ronberg's veteran team, which despite a defeat by Stambaugh appears destined to develop into a stronger aggregation than last year's range co-champions, is rated a 50-50 chance to dump the invaders.

According to reports, that 31-6 Soo score is not to be used as a guide in gauging the caliber of Escanaba's team. Reports say that several of the Eskymos' counters were handed them via fumbles inside the 10-yard line and the Soo is not up to the level of past Blue Devil teams.

Coach Ronberg was well satisfied with the play of his Vikings, who performed impressively in a downpour of rain to defeat Iron River. No major injuries have been reported and the Viking mentor expects to put his team on the field at full strength.

The opening kickoff for Saturday's game, the first home performance of the Vikings, is billed for 2:30. Two junior high school teams will play a preliminary starting at 1. Mahlberg, of Stambaugh, Enger, of Kingsford, and Egizii, of Iron Mountain, will officiate.

Albion Grid Players Leave For Delaware

Albion, Mich., Sept. 24, (AP)—Coach Dale Sprankle and a 30 man Albion college football squad leaves tomorrow for Delaware, O., where Saturday they will endeavor to square accounts for a 33 to 0 defeat last year to Ohio Wesleyan's battling Bishops.

Sprangle indicated that three freshmen—end Don Sherman of Owosso, tackle James Manard of Monroe and guard Bob De Wees of Mount Clemens—would be in the starting lineup

REDS BLANKED BY ST. LOUIS

Redbirds Assured of At Least Tie for Loop Pennant

BY CHARLES DUNKLEY

St. Louis, Sept. 24, (AP)—They didn't raise the National league pennant in St. Louis tonight, but they began dragging it out of the moth balls.

The Cardinals assured themselves at least a tie for the championship, no matter if they lose their remaining two games, when they shutout the Cincinnati Reds today, 6 to 0, to register their 104th victory of the season.

Cooper Finds Groove

Big Mort Cooper, ace right hander, held the Reds to two hits to achieve his 22nd victory—his seventh straight and his tenth shutout of the campaign. Only one Red runner managed to get to second. Cooper fanned six and issued no passes. At no time was he even threatened, so masterful did he pour 'em in.

Stan Musial, Cardinal left-fielder, connected with three hits to drive in three runs and Walker Cooper drove in two on a screeching triple.

Ray Starr, recent conquerer of Brooklyn, was driven out of the box with none out in the seventh when the first three Cardinals bombarded him with hits, to increase their total to ten, winding up with Cooper's triple. He was replaced by Joe Beggs, a right hander, who held the Cards hitless until the finish of the game.

Cubs Next Victim

The triumphant Cards will rest tomorrow before tangling with the Chicago Cubs in the final games of the season Saturday and Sunday.

The Cardinals scored at once in the first inning on two singles, a sacrifice and an error.

Jimmy Brown, second baseman, opened with a single and went to second on Harry Walker's sacrifice. Both runners were safe, however, because Bert Haas, in fielding Walker's bunt, threw wildly to first. The ball sailed over Frank McCormick's head and Eddie Joost made a beautiful one-handed back stop on the ground too late to prevent Brown from tearing to third. Slaughter popped to McCormick and Stan Musial singled a blow to right, scoring Brown and sending Walker to third. Walker Cooper, the work-horse catcher, however, hit into a double play, Joost to Damon Phillips to McCormick.

The Cardinals scored two more runs in the fifth after two were out on a double, a pass and an infield hit, filling the bases. Brown doubled to left and Walker drew a base on balls. Slaughter hit between Joost and McCormick. Musial smashed a hit that went between Haas' legs and rolled into left field, with Brown and Walker scoring.

ALMOST OVER

(By The Associated Press)

The St. Louis Cardinals, who were ten games out of the running in early August, today can be sure of at least a tie for the National league pennant.

Mort Cooper, their great right-hander, blanked the Cincinnati Reds 6-0 on two hits yesterday for his 22nd victory, seventh straight and tenth shutout to bring the Redbirds within a step of the championship. It was St. Louis' 41st victory in 50 games since Aug. 6, when the rush began.

The Brooklyn Dodgers also won yesterday, coming from behind to beat the Boston Braves 5-3 for their fifth triumph in a row.

But their rush apparently has come too late, because the Cardinals can clinch the pennant by winning either one of their two remaining games with the Chicago Cubs Saturday and Sunday, even if Brooklyn wins its remaining three tussles.

The standings:

Club	Won	Lost	To Play
St. Louis	104	48	2
Brooklyn	101	50	3

The schedule:

St. Louis—Sept. 26-27 Chicago.
Brookyln—Sept. 25 Boston; 26-27 at Philadelphia.

War Secratary Checks Up On Louis Conn Bout

BY SID FEDER

New York, Sept. 24 (AP)—Secretary of War Stimson revealed today he is making a personal investigation of the October 12 heavyweight championship fight between Joe Louis and Billy Conn, but officials promoting the bout said they did not believe it would be called off.

Stimson's investigation was disclosed at his press conference in Washington. He said he was "shocked" over arrangements for the tussle between the two soldier heavyweights which is to be held in Yankee Stadium, but he declined to say what details "shocked" him.

The war secretary explained that he "didn't know of the details until this morning" and said he hoped to complete his investigation "within 48 hours."

The war secretary's statement was a complete surprise to all those in New York who are connected with putting on the fight.

John Kieran, head of the Sports Writers Committee of War Boxing, Inc., which is promoting the fight, explained "we knew nothing of this, and we have neither the intention nor authority of calling the fight off; that's up to the war department."

Last Saturday Kieran succeeded Grantland Rice as head of the Sports Writers Committee during a stormy session over the $135,451.53 which was to be taken from the "gate" of the fight to pay personal debts said to be owed by Louis and Conn. Most of these debts are listed as owed to Promoter Mike Jacobs.

"The war department, through Major General Surles (A. D. Surles, head of the war department's public relations), asked us to put on the fight for army relief," Kieran went on. "We asked Jacobs to promote the bout for us. This was approved. We have nothing to say concerning Secretary Stimson's statement. Any statement we make must come from General Surles."

General Surles has been on army maneuvers in Kansas and is expected back in Washington tomorrow.

Corporal Conn Now

Meantime, Sergeant Louis and brand new Corporal Conn went on with their training chores—Joe at his Greenwood Lake, N. Y., camp and Billy at Mike's Rumson, N. J., estate. But the row over the bout had a new echo in congress, when Representative Holland (D-Pa), in reply to charges made by Representative O'Toole (D-NY) on the floor yesterday, contended that "to say that this is making a mockery out of the army and a mockery out of charity, to permit these two upstanding Americans to engage in a boxing bout that will benefit their buddies in service, is certainly hitting below the belt." O'Toole, Holland declared apparently has forgotten that Louis donated his whole purses to army and navy relief in his bouts last winter with Buddy Baer and Abe Simon.

O'Toole had called for a congressional investigation to determine whether favoritism was being shown some members of the armed forces and whether "the United States Army is being used for the first time to guarantee obligations that are owed to a fight promoter."

The Louis-Conn bout, a return match of a spectacular fight in June 1941 in which Louis knocked Conn out in the thirteenth round after Billy had piled up a large early margin, was sanctioned by the war department on September 8 with an announcement that neither fighter nor any "private interests" would receive a penny of profit.

"The "obligations," it was announced by the committee, were $58,805.50, said to be owed by Louis to the Twentieth Century Sporting Club of which Jacobs is president; $41,146.03, which Louis owed John Roxborough, one of his co-managers, and $34,500, owed by Conn to the Twentieth Century Sporting Club.

The committee sanctioned payment of these debts from the gate with the statement that "it is impossible to conduct the fight under the original plan suggested by the war department."

TROJANS PLAY CRYSTAL FALLS

St. Joseph Gridders In Shape for Important Clash Saturday

Coach Bernard LeRoy sent his St. Joseph football players through a protracted scrimmage session last night, after which he announced the Trojans are prepared for their important game Saturday at Crystal Falls.

The St. Joseph lads showed a lot of potential power, Coach LeRoy said, but he would not predict that they would upset the favored Crystal Falls team.

The starting lineup has been set except for a couple positions. Stacy and Gried have been nominated for the wing positions, with Les Marenger and Miron at tackles. Dugener is slated for one guard berth, with the other going to St. Cyr or Tobin. Seymour is a fixture at center.

Bartels and Flanders will alternate at quarterback and the halfback duties will be divided between Harris, Kroll, Walker, Gereau and McCarthy. Needham will start at fullback.

Other lads who will make the trip are Robert and Richard Marenger and Hermes.

EMERALD 11 TO GLADSTONE

Wassberg Crew Takes On Keil Gridders Saturday

Manistique—Manistique's hard-fighting, rough-and-ready football squad will invade Gladstone tomorrow to meet the Keilmen in the local gridder's first test away from home. It will be Manistique's third gridiron tilt so far this season and will be the second game for Gladstone, but the first one at home for them.

The Emeralds so far have shown themselves to be a team that has plenty of spirit and is willing to meet all competition on even terms. Taking St. Joseph's of Escanaba into camp in the opening tilt by a 19-0 score, the Wassberg crew added their second victory to the list when they downed Negaunee 7-0 last Saturday. Gladstone opened their schedule last week by bowing to the Orange and Black Mather high school team at Munising by a 15-0 score.

Coach Wassberg refuses to be too optimistic about the success of his team so far and this week concentrated his efforts on signal practice, exercises and dummy scrimmage. Weather conditions permitted the locals to practice out-of-doors on Monday and Tuesday but not since that time.

Casey, regular center, has been confined to his home by flu during the past week and Berger, regular back, has been suffering from a charley horse. Wassberg said that substantially the same line-up would start the game tomorrow against Gladstone as opened the tilt with Negaunee last week. Jackson will be used at center if Casey is unable to play and Wierenga or Steele will take Jackson's place at guard. Scheduled to be in the starting line-up are Snyder and G. Holm, ends; Carlson and Sellman, tackles; Steele, Jackson or Wierenga, guards; Casey or Jackson, center; Laurion, quarterback; Rushford, fullback, and Martin and Berger, halfbacks.

The Manistique reserve squad will go to Rock and will meet the "Little Giants" there. Donald Dissinger, assistant coach, will accompany the reserve squad.

BRAVES READY FOR EMERALDS

Gladstone Plays First of Three Home Games Saturday

Gladstone, Mich.—Local football fans will get their first opportunity to see the 1942 edition of the Braves in action when they clash with Manistique at Marble Athletic Field here Saturday afternoon in the initial home game of the season.

Only three home games are scheduled this season. After the 'Stique tilt, the Braves will travel to Marquette, Newberry and Ishpeming on successive Saturdays. On Oct. 24 they return to their home gridiron for the St. Joseph Parochial battle and will wind up the season here with the traditional Armistice Day classic against Escanaba.

Coach Eldon Keil has revamped his lineup this week in an effort to find a combination which packs a scoring punch. Several fine opportunities were lost in the opener against Munising last week because the drive bogged down when the team got into scoring territory.

This, however, appeared to have been corrected in scrimmage sessions this week. Haglund, who was used at fullback in the opener, was sent back into the line; Shandonay was back on the flank and Boden, who worked at end last week, was in the fullback spot and indications are that he will develop into an able line plunger.

A flag raising ceremony will precede the opening kickoff at 2 o'clock. Boy Scouts of Gladstone and the high school band will participate in the ceremony.

Ted Baldwin and Dick Schram of Escanaba and Wallace Cameron of Rapid River will handle the game.

RAILWAY MAKES SAFETY APPEAL

Schools Asked to Help In Curbing Dangerous Practices

The Chicago and North Western Railway company is appealing to schools to assist in the problem of eliminating dangerous practices at railroad crossings and on railroad premises, T. M. Cassidy, superintendent of the Peninsula division of the railroad, announced yesterday.

The following letter, soliciting the cooperation of the schools in this program, has been sent to school superintendents in this area:

Superintendents of Schools:

Now that consolidated and rural schools have opened for another year, children will be transported to and from these schools by school buses and these buses will operate throughout the territory served by this company.

As you know, in the past few years there have been sereval crossing accidents on various railroads wherein school children were killed or injured due to failure of school bus drivers to stop for railroad crossings, although the law in the states where such accidents occurred required that such vehicles come to a stop before proceeding over crossings.

To reduce the possibility of such accidents on the C. & N. W. railway, we will appreciate it if you will instruct all school bus drivers under your jurisdiction to stop at all railroad crossings and make absolutely certain that the track is clear in each direction before proceeding over the crossings.

In this connection, injuries to minors using bicycles have been more or less frequent of late, including instances where children pushed or rode their bicycles from behind a passenger train and immediately in front of one approaching from the opposite direction.

Your attention is also directed, at this time, to the problem of reducing trespassing upon railroad premises by school children. May we suggest that through your school teachers, Parent-Teacher Associations, etc., you impress upon the school children the dangers attendant upon the practice of using railroad tracks, bridges, yards, etc., as a playground, or taking short cuts across such premises instead of using regularly laid out street, highway crossings, etc.

I assure you, your cooperation will be very much appreciated.

Yours truly,
T. M. CASSIDY,
Superintendent.

ROAD PROJECTS ARE ADVERTISED

Bids Asked On Highway Jobs At Ft. Brady and Vulcan

Bids for the construction of a military access road from US-2 into Fort Brady at Sault Ste. Marie, and improvement of a temporary route on US-2 through the villege of Vulcan in Dickinson county, will be received by the state highway department at Escanaba on October 2.

State Highway Commissioner G. Donald Kennedy said the Fort Brady access road will be 1.695 miles long and will cost an estimated $195,000. The work will consist of grading the road, constructing the necessary drainage structures, and surfacing with 8½ inch uniform concrete.

The improvement is over city streets from the junction of US-2 at Thirteenth street to Fort Brady. Width of the pavement will vary from 22 to 28 feet. Construction of a uniform concrete slab eliminates the need of steel reinforcing in the pavement.

The project in Dickinson county is for grading and stabilized gravel surfacing of eight-tenths of a mile of temporary US-2 in the village of Vulcan around a settlement of the pavement in a mining area. Improvement of the temporary route will eliminate some of the existing hazards there. Cost of the work is estimated at $15,000.

More Observation Volunteers Needed

E. V. Rudness, chief observer of the Escanaba primary aircraft detection post, announced yesterday that he now has 125 volunteer workers to man the post, but said that many additional volunteers are still needed.

Men are needed particularly for the three shifts from 12 midnight to nine a. m., and more women are needed for the day shifts.

Volunteers are asked to contact Mr. Rudness at his home, 1880 after working hours, or at 280 during working hours.
